Accused Man Will Know Fate During Afternoon Session

Mrs. Damery Only Witness Called by Counsel For Defence—Case Expected To Be Completed Today

FLASH: Jury retired at 3:10 p.m.

Fate of Hector Damery, North Edmonton packing plant employee, who is on trial in supreme court before Mr. Justice T. M. Tweedie and a jury, on a charge of murdering his three-month-old daughter, Laurette Jeanette, in their North Edmonton home on November 26 last, will be in the hands of the jury today.

Evidence for the crown was completed at 11:30 o'clock this morning, and only one witness, Mrs. Damery, was called by the defence. Defence Counsel R. Fred Jackson commenced his address to the jury when court sittings resumed at 2:15 o'clock.

Keen interest was displayed by the public in the hearing. Long before the court house doors opened spectators had gathered seeking admission. The entrance guard arrived shortly after 8 o'clock and when the court rooms were opened a crowd of several hundred persons was waiting admission.

MANY DISAPPOINTED

Many spectators were disappointed, but continued to stand outside the court room awaiting news of the progress of the trial.

Just before 10 o'clock Damery was brought into the court room and placed in the prisoner's box. He was clad in a dark blue pinstripe suit, a light blue shirt, and seemed extremely nervous. He sat in the box with his head resting on his right hand and wept silently throughout the proceedings.

SIX JURORS CHALLENGED

Formalities of selecting the jury were quickly completed. Only 15 jurors were called before the panel was sworn. Six jurors were challenged, three by Crown Counsel J. W. McClung, and three by R. Fred Jackson, defense counsel.

The jurymen trying the case are: Joseph Kleier, Edmonton; Langley Jones, Fort Saskatchewan; N. F. Judah, Edmonton; W. O. Johnson, Onoway; James Fraser, Edmonton; and William Blacklock, Athabasca.

In a brief address Mr. McClung outlined the charge against accused. He said the crown would try to prove that accused had so beaten his infant daughter that she had died from the effect, and that he was so reckless in his actions when he beat the baby that he did not care if the child lived or died.

CHILD UNCONSCIOUS

Dr. D. G. Douglas told of being called to the Damery home on the morning of November 26. He arrived at about 9 o'clock and found the baby in a very serious condition. He immediately ordered the baby to hospital, taking her to the Royal Alexandra hospital himself. When he entered the home the child was in her mother's arms. She was unconscious and was having fits.

His examination disclosed the

SCOBLE GETS ONE YEAR ON MURDER TRY

Judge Advises Crown Agent to Investigate Perjury in Evidence

After deliberating for five-and-a-half hours a jury in supreme court returned a verdict of guilty of shooting with intent to kill against Stanley G. Scoble. Coalspur district resident, but recommended leniency. He was sentenced by Mr. Justice T. M. Tweedie to one year imprisonment to date from his arrest on November 7 last.

Scoble was charged with shooting at Arthur P. Rogers, locomotive engineer, following a fight at Coalspur on the night of November 6. It was alleged by the crown that subsequent to the fight Scoble had shot at Mr. Rogers through the C.N.R. bunk house window, narrowly missing him.

In passing sentence Mr. Justice Tweedie said he would take into consideration all the factors in the case and the jury's recommendation for leniency.

DIRECT CONFLICT

"There has been direct conflict of evidence in this case, stated the jurist, but the fact remains the accused was very badly beaten up by Rogers. No doubt the accused did

STOCK MARKET CRACKS UNDER HEAVY SELLING

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Hit by the heaviest selling wave of the new year, many stocks broke $1 to $6 a share today with steels and other industrial shares leading the market's decline.

In the van of the retreat were such issues as United States Steel, Bethlehem, Anaconda Copper, Chrysler, Kennecott, J. I. Case, Johns Manville, General Motors, Westinghouse, General Electric, Allied Chemical and International Nickel.

Foremost in market discussion was President Roosevelt's stand against wage reductions as a means to lower prices for manufactured goods and industrial materials. Brokers said it seemed to increase the nervousness of share holders over profit-making prospects.

INDIAN LOSING HUNTING CRAFT DUE TO WHITES

Col. J. K. Cornwall Says Native Is Deteriorating and Starving

The gradual deterioration of the Indians of the northland since the advent of the white man and his civilization is the real reason that Indians of the Mackenzie river and Peace river areas are now facing starvation, according to Col. James K. Cornwall, D.S.O., well known northerner, who has just returned to Edmonton from a trip into the barren lands.

"It is true that the caribou trek this year has not yet brought the animals down as far south as they usually come, but in the old days that would have meant nothing at all; the Indians instead of waiting for the caribou to come to them would have gone out and found them," he said.

LACK STAMINA

Failure of the caribou to come south is only one reason of the plight of the Indians. There are just as many caribou in the country as there ever were, but the newer breed of Indians haven't got the stamina nor the woodcraft of their forefathers and are not as good hunters as the old timers," he said. "Civilization has softened them up."

But while this is true there is no minimizing the seriousness of the Indians' plight, said Col. Cornwall.

"They are actually starving, and unless something is done to assist them many of them will die," he said. "The situation has gone too long and the Indians cannot now reach the place where

Huge Housing Plan Urged By John L. Lewis

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—John L. Lewis recommended larger relief funds and a $5,000,000,000 housing program Tuesday to aid the unemployed and stimulate recovery.

He suggested the United States government take the $5,000,000,000 from the social security reserves and invest it in low-cost housing.

The report covered his activities in the presidency for the last two years.

The Committee for Industrial Organization leader reported the union had $2,534,668 in the bank last Nov. 30.

Alberta Lumber Industry Probe Urged By Labor

Number of Men on Picket Lines in Winfield Area Increasing

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

WINFIELD, Alta., Jan. 26. — With the strike of lumber workers in this district spreading, it is believed that the Carrol Bros. Lumber Company here will have to close down its operations today, adding to the number of men from the various camps who are now on the picket lines.

R. E. Ansley, M.L.A. for the district conferred with C.I.O. organizers and strikers on Tuesday night and spoke at a mass meeting held in Winfield. He is planning to take a group of strikers to Edmonton to confer with the government regarding the strike situation. Men from each camp will be in the delegation.

GOVERNMENT CRITICIZED

Criticism of government action in allowing lumber prices to go to pay less than the rate allowed by the Minimum Wage Act was voiced by R. Savage, C.I.O. organizer. It is stated that operators were given permits to pay less than the rate set by the act without consulting with representatives of the men as to whether the rate were justified. It is also stated that the mill operators had been given permits to work longer hours than the hours set by the Hours of Labor legislation passed by the government, the Etter-McDougall operations working ten hours a day.

A thorough investigation into the whole industry is being asked by the men, with special reference to bunk

FAMOUS SPAN OVER NIAGARA HIT BY FLOES

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Jan. 26. —Smashed by great ice floes thundering over Niagara Falls and shaken at its base on the United States side, the famous Falls View international bridge was closed to traffic today.

The high-flung steel structure, known to millions of honeymooners since its construction, in 1898, wavered under the tremendous pressure of the huge Niagara Falls ice jam in 30 years.

The ice was estimated in some places to be 100 feet high in the gorge. Near the bridge-head here, thousands waited to see if the bridge would withstand the terrific pressure.

MANY FARMERS ASSISTED BY RELIEF PLANS

Joint Program Rehabilitates 2,984 Families in Year

During the past year's activities in rehabilitating farmers in the dried out areas o' the province, no fewer than 2,984 such families were taken care of, according to Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health and in charge of relief and public welfare.

Now made self-supporting by participation in various provincial and Dominion-provincial works projects, the rehabilitation of these families has resulted in a direct monthly saving to the province of $21,393. In addition, declared Dr. Cross, a total of $72,385 advanced for timber and co projects, has been entirely recovered by the province from the sale of timber produced by rehabilitation workers.

It was pointed out that the sale of this timber did not affect local lumber operators in any way, as it has meant the filling of orders which originally were placed outside the province.

It was announced that the program of rehabilitation is being extended this year and increased figures will show a material increase in the number of families now able to fend for themselves.

The department, it was stated, is anxious to place people requiring rehabilitation and who now have to ask for relief, in a position where such assistance is not required.

With the scheme functioning efficiently and with experience gained in the past, there is no doubt that by the end of the current year a tremendous change for the better will be seen.

Projects include clearing of land, elimination of fire hazards, production of timber bridges material, ties, telephone poles and corduroying and drainage work.

FOURTEEN MEN IN PARIS DEAD BY GRENADE BLAST

PARIS, Jan. 26.—Fourteen men were killed today in an explosion which wrecked the municipal laboratory at Villejuif, where authorities were examining munitions seized in the Cusar investigation.

The blast occurred while grenades seized in raids on arms caches and secret revolutionary headquarters were being loaded for transportation to the Artillery park at Versailles.

New System Gets Special Tryout in Infantile Paralysis

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 26.—The Victoria state government, striving to halt a persistent infantile paralysis epidemic responsible for 87 deaths, has decided to try out a system of treatment evolved by a nurse, Elizabeth Kenny.

Since its outbreak eight months ago the epidemic has affected 1,600 persons and from 10 to 30 new cases have been reported daily this month in country districts although new cases have decreased in Melbourne.

SCHOOLS CLOSED

The Victoria education department has postponed, at least until Feb. 7, all schools and Trades and Nurse Kenny, an Australian who has started several clinics in Australia and done considerable experimental work with the disease in London, bases her treatment on three principles:

Maintenance of a bright mental outlook, the use of hydrotherapy and remedial exercises, maintenance of circulation and avoidance of generally accepted methods of immobilization.

Despite an unfavorable report on the Kenny system by a royal commission of five doctors in Queensland, the Victoria government decided to assign her 22 beds for her experiments. She will work with a doctor and her own nurses. A panel of independent British Medical Association doctors will have general supervision.

DISCARDS PRINCIPLES

The Queensland commission contended Nurse Kenny's treatment discarded principles which sound opinion considers essential. It argued that trained masseuses could obtain similar results if given the same opportunity for concentrated attention to patients.

DR. W. S. HALL, E. EDMONTON M.P., IS DEAD

Prominent City Dentist Dies in Hospital Early Wednesday

Dr. William Samuel Hall, Social Credit M.P. for Edmonton East, and well-known Edmonton dental surgeon, died in the Misericordia hospital Wednesday morning following an attack of pneumonia. He was 66 years of age. He was taken to hospital Tuesday from the family residence at 11625 Stony Plain Road after a short illness.

Death of the parliamentarian came as a shock to his associates, as he was apparently in good health until a short time ago. Last week he had called a meeting of his supporters in the Macdonald hotel, but had himself been unable to attend due to an indisposition. Mrs. Hall attended the gathering in his place.

Last week he had called a meeting of his supporters in the Macdonald hotel, but had himself been unable to attend due to an indisposition. Mrs. Hall attended the gathering in his place.

BORN IN ONTARIO

Born November 18, 1871, at Mount Forest, Ont., deceased was the son of William Thomas Hall and Mary Gillies. He received his early education at Hawkesbury, Ont., and studied dentistry at Toronto University and was a member of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons.

Dr. Hall first came to Edmonton about 30 years ago, and then took up residence at the Pacific Coast, but returned on June 11, 1910, to Grace Dudgeon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Dudgeon, at Victoria.

RETURNED TO CANADA

Commencing his professional career in Victoria, Dr. Hall later moved to Australia and then returned to Canada and continued his practice in Edmonton.

He obtained his degree in dental surgery in 1895 at Toronto, and his L.D.S. from the Royal College of Dental Surgeons in the same year.

Dr. Hall entered the political arena in 1935, as a Social Credit

NORTH PLANE CARRIES MAN TO KIN HERE

First White Child Born On Victoria Island Waits For Dad

Two persons will be watching the northern skies with anxious and excited eyes Wednesday afternoon when they are looking for the distant hum of an airplane motor.

They will be Mrs. Ernest Pasley and her little daughter June Victoria, first white child born on Victoria Island, and the pilot of the Arctic circle. They will be watching for the Mackenzie Air Service plane, piloted by Archie Vanhee, which is bringing Ernest Pasley, husband and father from Cambridge Bay, on Victoria Island, to join them here in Edmonton.

ON HOLIDAYS

Mrs. Pasley and her daughter arrived in Edmonton last August, the first time they had been out from the isolated northern trading post, where Mr. Pasley is manager of a Canalaska trading post, in two years. Since they have been on holidaying at Edmonton and Vancouver and trying to get used to civilization,

Mr. Pasley, who for 15 years served as a member of the Royal North West Mounted Police in the north, is known throughout the Arctic. Besides being manager of the trading post he is master of the Nigalik, the company boat in which supplies are brought to Cambridge Bay from Herschal Island.

In 1930 Mr. and Mrs. Pasley were married in Vancouver. They went north in the lonely trading post, where there are only a half-dozen regular white residents. This will be the first time Mr. Pasley has been "out" since his marriage.

SAND IS NOW UTILIZED ON CITY'S WALKS

Cinders Are Taboo as Edict Of City Council Carried Out

Following out recent instructions of city council, the city engineering department is now using sand on all sidewalks where necessary and also on street intersections downtown. Sand is being used instead of cinders following complaints by merchants that cinder dust was causing damage to merchandise stock.

The department reported Wednesday that about 40 cubic yards of sand had been used during the day to prevent slipping on icy streets and sidewalks. The material is being used in the downtown district from 97 to 104 streets and from 100 (Victoria) to 102 avenue; sand is also being used as far west as 105 street on Jasper avenue.

1,000 CUBIC YARDS

City Engineer A. W. Haddow estimates that about 4,000 cubic yards of sand would be used during a normal winter, the present price of sand average approximately $1.50 a yard.

Some salt is being mixed with the moist sand to prevent it freezing in storage piles, although Mr. Haddow stressed the fact that salt would only prevent sand from freezing down to a temperature of five below. If the temperature drops below this salt is of no benefit for this purpose. Hence, the engineer explained, it may be necessary to keep the storage sheds to keep the sand above freezing temperature if the city plans to continue the use of this material on sidewalks and street intersections.

ONE-MONTH TRIAL

The present sanding program will be tried for one month in order to determine costs as compared to cinders.

The city recently received a shipment of 20 tons of salt from Mc-Murray for mixing with sand to prevent freezing.

COURT HOLDS BOND INTEREST VALIDITY EDICT

Decision in Forester Suit is Withheld by Appeal Tribunal

Judgment was reserved by the Alberta appeal court in the appeal brought by the provincial government against the decision of Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing giving judgment against the Lethbridge Northern Irrigation District in the action brought by the Independent Order of Foresters, seeking full interest on $182,000 irrigation district bonds held by the order.

Judgment was also reserved on the constitutional validity of the controversial Guaranteed Securities Proceedings act.

The court intimated to George L. Shaw, K.C., counsel for the Foresters' Order, that it was not necessary to submit argument in support of his contention that the Provincially Guaranteed Securities Interest Act, 1937, was ultra vires of the powers of the province of Legislature.

DECISION GIVEN

Decision in respect to this matter had been delivered in the Reduction of Interest Act appeal, the appeal which came before the appeal court earlier this year.

Tuberculosis Death Rate Among Indians Said High

TREATMENT IS INADEQUATE IS MEDIC'S CLAIM

Deaths Among White Population Twice as High In East As West

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—The tuberculosis death rate among Indians in Canada is 12 times as high as that for the white population, primarily due to lack of adequate treatment, Dr. G. J. Wherrett, secretary of the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, told the Rowell Commission Tuesday.

Among the white population the death rate in Quebec and the maritime provinces is twice as high as that in Ontario and the western provinces, due to heavier original infection and less done about it in the eastern half of the country, he said.

GRAVE PROBLEM

"Tuberculosis in Canada still constitutes a grave problem," Dr. Wherrett stated. "It is the greatest cause of death in the age groups from 15 to 45 and seventh cause for all ages."

Hon. N. W. Rowell, commission chairman, asked whether the more protected, civilized environment was chiefly responsible for the high death rate among Canada's Indian population.

"That has been given as an excuse for years for not giving Indians the same tuberculosis treatment as the whites," Dr. Wherrett said. "We believe infection rather than environment is the chief cause and that if they were given the same treatment it could be reduced the same way."

Dr. Wherrett said the Indian death rate would be cut in half in 15 years, as was done in Ontario, by applying the same methods as applied to whites. The Indian affairs department never had funds available to treat Indians to any extent although they had spent more last year than before, he said.

GRANTS-IN-AID

The association recommended Dominion grants-in-aid to provinces where the burden was heaviest and where the governments were willing to carry out a scientific campaign as many had done.

The association also recommended increased responsibility should be taken by the federal government through the Indian affairs branch of the department of mines and resources regarding Indian tuberculosis.

It was noted that tuberculosis among Indians was a constant danger to the white population, aside from the fact care of the Indians was a Dominion responsibility.

Saskatchewan had demonstrated the value of such a program, materially reducing the Indian death rate in eight years. In 1936, its Indian tuberculosis death rate was 577 a 100,000, as against 1,199 for Alberta and 1,313 for Manitoba.

LACK OF SERVICES

Addition of one or more tuberculosis officers to the staff of the branch would help. At present Indians lacked proper diagnostic services. An added expenditure of $500,000 would be required to carry out the program suggested for Indians.

Great progress had been made by the provinces since 1924 in improving sanatorium accommodation for tuberculosis sufferers but more sanatorium beds were urgently needed where the death rate was still high, notably in Quebec and the maritime provinces.

In practice it had been found waiting lists for sanatoria disappeared only when an average of more than two beds for every annual death was provided. Ontario and Saskatchewan had exceeded this ratio, Manitoba and British Columbia were approaching it, but the other provinces were far below it.

INCREASE 50 PER CENT

Quebec and the maritime provinces would have to increase their accommodation at least 50 per cent to cope with the problem in the next 20 years, Dr. Wherrett said. This would entail capital expenditures and maintenance charges the provinces might be loath to undertake, and grants in aid would be helpful.

Provinces which had increased their treatment facilities to the great extent had experienced the greatest reduction in the death rate.

In Ontario and Saskatchewan the death rate among white people had been reduced by 41.9 per cent and 46.1 per cent respectively in about 11 years, compared with reductions of 28.4 per cent and 27.2 per cent respectively in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia where facilities were not so adequate.

Student of labor economics

John L. Lewis, burly, bushy-haired leader of the United Mine Workers, largest union in the world, revealed all the power of his dominating personality as he addressed the convention of his union at Washington. The 2500 delegates were expected to take a definite stand on the 30-hour week in the mines, industrial unionism, and coal bootlegging.

LEWIS WARNS INDUSTRY TO KEEP PAY UP

Complete Debacle Predicted If Wages Allowed To Collapse

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Whistling, cheering miners in convention heard John L. Lewis warn United States government and industry Tuesday to keep the wage scale up.

If wages and prices are allowed to collapse, there will be "a complete economic, social and political debacle," Lewis told 2,000 of his United Mine Workers jammed into a theatre.

As the first medicine for economic ills, Lewis advocated immediate federal appropriation of $6,000,000,000—five for a gigantic low-cost housing program and one for this winter's relief needs.

Another $2,000,000,000 would be needed for relief next winter, he suggested in his written report.

Lewis' report showed his union had $2,534,668 in the bank last Nov. 30, an increase of $236,649 over the amount reported at the last convention.

Roosevelt Warns Against Wage Slashing

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—A warning to industry that wage cuts would depress business further and force the United States government to "consider other means of creating purchasing power" came Tuesday from President Roosevelt.

Calling also for prices low enough to be within the reach of the public, he said in a formal statement issued at his press conference:

"Industrialists kill the goose that lays the golden egg when they keep prices up at the expense of employment and purchasing power. Industrialists kill the goose that lays the golden egg when they cut wages and thereby reduce purchasing power. Either policy is self-defeating and suicidal."

LABOR URGES INVESTIGATION OF LUMBERING

former proposals still not brought into force by the governments.

The enquiry into the lumbering industry, asked for in a supplement to the brief, would be made by a committee set up under the Public Enquiries act. It would take into consideration recent legislation which set a minimum scale for the industry and conditions regarding hours, wages and other points which were unsatisfactory from the workmen's standpoint.

In referring to unemployment, the brief asked that a higher unemployment relief quota be set than that suggested by the federal government in its submission to the provincial government, asking approval for an amendment to the British North America act. Mr. White said it was understood this quota would be equal to the minimum wage of an unskilled worker in the provinces affected.

BELOW STANDARD

Such a minimum, Mr. White said, would be below the wages necessary to maintain an average standard of living such as that computed by the federal bureau of statistics.

A uniform relief rate throughout the province was also asked by the federation. Objection was taken to the policy of police investigation of applicants before they were allowed to receive relief.

The brief noted that on its legislative program the government had listed consolidation of the Workmen's Consolidation act, and asked that the draft of the bill for this purpose be submitted to the federation before it was passed. The federation held this step necessary, Mr. White said, because when the bill was passed it would probably not be subject to amendment for several years.

MINE REGULATIONS

In a clause touching on coal mining, the federation asked that mines in unorganized districts be subject to the same minimum wage and compensation act provisions as those in organized districts, and that the 200 small mines in the provinces, which account for only one-tenth of the province's total output of coal, be subjected to conditions which would prevent them from developing into a detriment to the industry as a whole.

Other requests made in the brief included:

Representation for labor on the board or commission in charge of the public utilities act.

Provision of free text books and school supplies to pupils attending public and high schools, free examinations and free university training for all pupils desiring such education.

Implementation of the section of the health insurance act providing for medical aid and hospitalization.

LICENSE DRILLERS

Licensing of well drillers and provisions that tests be made of all wells for foul air before a person is allowed to enter them.

Passage of legislation which would enable Alberta workers to come under the federal government's proposed unemployment insurance scheme.

The brief was presented to the cabinet by Mr. White, Pat Conroy, Calgary; Carl Berg, secretary-treasurer Alberta Federation of Labor, A. Farmilo, Edmonton; F. Smeed, Lethbridge, and E. Moore, Calgary. The delegates were also accompanied into the council chamber by representatives of Edmonton trade unions.

SUPPORT FOR STRIKERS

Social Credit groups and individual farmers in the area in which the camps are located are rallying to the support of the strikers who are being given donations of vegetables, meat and other necessities. The camp kitchen set up by the strikers is working at 100 per cent efficiency and the men are orderly, although threats of trouble if attempts to open up the closed down camps are made, have been heard. There are extra R.C.M.P. officers scattered throughout the area and the situation is under control.

C.I.O. workers and the Minnehik Social Credit Group will meet at Buck Lake, 20 miles west of Winfield, on Wednesday night. A number of operations in this area will be called on to join the strikers and arrangements will be made for picketing in the area and for the supply of food for the strikers from that district.

Three Named To Go To Sydney Producer Parley

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—J. F. Desmarais, general-manager of the Co-operative Federation of Quebec, W. O. McKenzie, manager of the Southern Alberta Co-operative Association, and R. J. Scott, president of the United Farmers of Ontario, were named today by the Canadian Livestock Producers Conference to act as a sub-committee in connection with the Empire Producers Conference to be held at Sydney, Australia, this year.

North America, with one-twelfth of the world's people, uses about one-half of all the timber consumed in the world.

Goes On Trial

child had discolored and swollen eyes. There was a small abrasion on the nose, and the hollow part of the child's head was pulsating. This indicated there was some type of internal head pressure.

The mother, and the grandfather were present when he arrived at the house, witness said. There was no sign of the father.

CAUSE OF DEATH

The child continued to have convulsions after admission to hospital, Dr. Douglas stated, and died about one o'clock. In his opinion the cause of death was "cerebral hemorrhage caused by injury to the head."

Dr. Douglas said the child was very small when born, and was delicate.

Laceration of the tissues covering the head was given as the cause of death by Dr. Morton Hall, who performed the autopsy on the body of the child. These lacerations could have been caused by blows on the head. The lacerations resulted in hemorrhage of the head which resulted in death.

Asked by the court if the injuries could have been caused by the child falling from a high chair? the witness replied that it was not possible.

OBJECTION RAISED

Evidence of a statement given him by the accused was given by William McDonald, city police detective. An objection was raised by Mr. Jackson, defence counsel, to this statement being admitted, but the court ruled that it should be put in.

In the statement accused admitted he could not control himself and had slapped the baby on both cheeks and on the buttocks. He said he did not slap the child on the head.

Accused said he was extremely nervous and slight sounds annoyed him. He blamed his nervous condition to working on the killing floor of a local packing plant.

He said the baby was crying and he had asked his wife to put it in bed with him. The baby continued to cry and I lost control and slapped her.

"After I slapped her the baby seemed to be ill, and I called for my wife, who came and told me to telephone for Dr. Douglas," the statement said.

HUSBAND NERVOUS

Mrs. Lucienne Damery told of her husband's nervous condition and recounted incidents in their North Edmonton home tending to show that the accused had been close to a physical and mental breakdown through overwork at his packing plant job.

She told of the love her husband had for their baby and how he used to play with her and call her endearing names. "He never meant to hurt the child, he loved her too much," cried the desperate woman as she told the court of their struggle to live.

"We have never been on relief," she proudly stated. "Hector would take on any kind of work to keep me and the baby. We rented our house and lived in a shack in an effort to make ends meet," she continued as she sobbed quietly in the witness box.

HUSBAND COMPLAINED

Recovering her composure Mrs. Damery told of incidents in their home prior to November 26. On many occasions, she said, her husband complained he was unable to keep up with the work on the killing floor.

"He used to come home at night in an exhausted state. On many occasions he did not have the strength to take off his overshoes, and would just flop down on the bed and go to sleep. I would have to call him several times to come to his supper," she testified.

"He was extremely nervous and could not stand noise in the house. At the least noise he would tremble all over. I have seen him, when a person rustled a newspaper, start to tremble," she stated.

"On one occasion he returned home and the kettle was boiling on the fire. When he heard it sizzling he dashed up and pushed it off the stove. I asked him why he had done that.

COULDN'T STAND IT

"'I can't stand it, it reminds me of the pigs squealing at the packing plant, the squealing of pigs and bawling of cattle would drive a man crazy,' he replied.

"I asked him on several occasions to quit work at the plant, but he was anxious to be working and making a living for us," witness said.

"When he was fired from the plant Hector told me he did not feel badly about it," witness continued. "He had a poisoned hand and I was treating it.

"That morning we slept in and I got up to light the fire about 10 o'clock. The baby was crying and Hector asked me to put her in bed with him. I did so. He asked me to bring the bottle as the baby seemed to be very hungry. The baby would not drink its milk, and I took the bottle back to the kitchen.

FOUND BADLY HURT

"Shortly afterwards I heard Hector call me and I went in and found the baby was hurt.

"I asked him what he had done to my baby, and he replied that he had slapped her, but did not mean to do it."

"He did not seem to realize the baby was hurt and I told him to call Dr. Douglas and he did so," sobbed the witness.

Under cross-examination by Mr. McClung, Mrs. Damery said that in a statement given the police on November 26 she had used the word "slapped," but what she had intended to convey was that Hector had tapped the baby's cheeks with his fingers to make it stop crying. He used to play with the baby when it cried and had found that by lightly tapping it on the cheeks it would stop crying. She did not mean the word in the sense that he had slapped the child violently or with excessive force, she stated.

JUDGMENT IS RESERVED BY APPEAL COURT

tributing to Chief Justice Horace Harvey the statement "as a court we do not propose to allow the legislature to legislate as to interest" it has been pointed out that the Chief Justice was not making a statement of fact, but was suggesting something by way of argument which was misinterpreted.

Opening his argument in support of his contention that the Provincially Guaranteed Securities Proceedings Act was ultra vires of the provincial legislature Mr. Steer said it was necessary to read that act in compliment with the Provincially Guaranteed Securities Interest Act and the Provincial Securities Interest Act. All three acts, he contended, were a scheme to legislate as to interest and were identical in intent to the Provincial Interest Act passed in 1936 and which was declared ultra vires of the provincial legislature by Mr. Justice W. C. Ives.

DUE TO CONFLICT

Assuming that argument was not accepted Mr. Steer submitted in the alternative that the Provincially Guaranteed Securities Proceedings act was ultra vires because of its conflict with the Dominion Interest act. He asserted that section two of the Dominion Interest act provided for the exacting of interest. He asserted that "exacting of interest" meant that a creditor had the right of access to the courts to enforce his claim for payment of interest.

He also submitted that the act was bad because it attempted to bar proceedings on securities payable outside the province.

H. J. Wilson, K.C., counsel for the provincial government, admitted that the Provincially Guaranteed Securities Proceedings act did not bar a declaration from the courts on the validity of other acts questioned in the action.

ACCESS INHERENT

Mr. Justice A. A. McGillivray stated that, while there was considerable doubt in his opinion, it was arguable that the provincial legislature could not bar access to the courts at all, and even in respect to matters undoubtedly within provincial control. It is inherent in the constitution, he said, that the citizen have access to the courts, and that the British North America act contemplated the existence of the courts as it did the existence of the parliament of Canada and the provincial legislatures.

FOUR LOYALIST DIVISIONS WIPED OUT BY REBELS

SALAMANCA, Spain, Jan. 26—More than four government divisions have been wiped out in the insurgent counter-thrusts on the Teruel front in eastern Spain, insurgent sources declared today. Eight thousand government casualties were brought back to Barcelona alone, it was said.

Operations of General Franco's troops on the Teruel front are mainly designed to inflict crushing losses on the "red" army and are not particularly against Teruel or objectives outside the city, it was added.

Coast Mayor Goes To Parley

VANCOUVER, Jan. 26—Mayor George C. Miller was authorized Tuesday by the city council to attend the annual conference of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities at Ottawa March 15, 16 and 17.

A civic finance committee made the authorization in spite of a protest by Alderman John Bennett, who declared he could not see the value of the conference this year because the federal government would await the findings of the Rowell commission before considering proposals by the mayors' conference.

MOTION ASKS DOMINION TO FILL PLEDGES

Manitoba House Asks Currency and Credit in Terms Public Need

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26.—By vote of 19 to 13 the Manitoba house on Tuesday adopted a motion by N. L. Turnbull (S.C., Hamiota) calling on the Dominion government "to implement its election pledges and issue through the Bank of Canada currency and credit considered in terms of public need, the amount of which to be determined in relation to the domestic and industrial requirements of the Canadian people."

A motion that a specific guarantee of "the accuracy of the press" be written into the constitution of Canada was placed before the legislature by William Lisowsky (S.C., Ethelbert).

The Lisowsky motion was offered as an amendment to a resolution by L. St. George Stubbs (Ind., Winnipeg) urging the legislature to express an opinion that guarantees of religious liberty and of freedom of speech, press and assembly should be embodied in the Canadian constitution.

"I contend we have no freedom of the press," was Mr. Lisowsky's only explanation and before the amendment was discussed further debate was adjourned by H. F. Lawrence (C.C.F., St. Boniface).

in a dazed and stupid condition when he fired the shot at the complainant, but the jury, having heard the evidence, have come to the conclusion he was not so badly injured that it impaired his mentality to the extent he was incapable of forming an intent.

"Having in mind the severe beating he sustained, his enraged condition and the difficulties he was in with Mrs. Pearl, I am imposing a light sentence," concluded Mr. Justice Tweedie.

Mr. Justice Tweedie stated there "had been wilful and deliberate perjury committed during this trial, and I suggest to the agent for the attorney-general that this aspect of the case be not allowed to rest here, but that enquiries be made to determine the person or persons committing perjury and, if evidence of perjury is available, that they be brought before the bar of this court."

PRAISES JURY

In discharging the jury, Mr. Justice Tweedie complimented them on the diligence and thoroughness with which they performed their duties. These duties, he said, were performed in strict conformity with their oath of office.

As the sentence was pronounced by Mr. Justice Tweedie the accus-Pearl, broke down and cried bitterly. When the jurist left the bench she rushed to the prisoner's box to embrace her man. "We are going to visit relatives and friends in the old land, and will not be back till late in the summer," said Mrs. Pasley.

OTHERS COMING

It is believed that besides Mr. Pasley, Pilot Vanhee is bringing to Edmonton a Mrs. Sembler, the wife of a free-trader at Cambridge Bay, and her two children. "I believe they are coming on the same plane as my husband. And I believe that Mrs. Sembler is taking the children down to Portland," said Mrs. Pasley.

Abitibi Power To Appeal Ruling

TORONTO, Jan. 26—Mr. Justice W. E. Middleton Tuesday granted leave to the bondholders' representative committee, sponsors of a reorganization plan for Abitibi Power and Paper Company Limited, to appeal a court decision turning down the plan. A week ago Mr. Justice Charles McTague, who heard lengthy argument for and against the committee's plan for reorganization of the $85,000,000 corporation, dismissed a motion asking court approval.

Border Survey

OTTAWA, Jan. 26—Appointment of the Dominion member of the board to carry on the survey of the Alberta - Saskatchewan border is under consideration, it was learned last night. It was understood the Alberta and Saskatchewan members have already been appointed by their respective governments.

candidate for Edmonton in the provincial elections. He was defeated, but was elected to the House of Commons as a Social Credit candidate for the Edmonton East constituency in the same year.

By religion a Baptist, Dr. Hall was well-known in church circles. He was a member of the A. F. and A. M. and other societies.

Deceased leaves his wife and daughter, Edna, at the family residence; and a stepson, Clifford Steiger, also of Edmonton.

Howard and McBride are in charge of funeral arrangements, which will be announced later.

Flag At Half-Mast Over Parliament Block

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—Keen regret was expressed today by Social Credit members over the passing of Dr. W. S. Hall, M. P. for Edmonton East. The flag flies at half-mast over the parliament buildings.

"Dr. Hall was typical of many elderly people in Alberta. He had means to live and did not have to worry about income, yet he thought of the people who had no income and so gave his services to the cause of bettering their condition," said John Blackmore, leader of the group.

Dr. Hall was not very well known to most parliamentarians. Being of a retiring disposition, he seldom if ever made a speech, and so few knew him.

Death of Dr. Hall lowered to 16 the number of Social Credit members of the House of Commons and brought the number of vacancies to three. The standing today: Liberals 178, Conservatives 38, Social Credit 16, C.C.F. seven, Independent one, Reconstruction one, U.F.O. one, vacant three. Total 245.

Premier Aberhart Pays Warm Tribute

Premier William Aberhart, commenting on Dr. Hall's death, said:

"The sudden death of Dr. Hall comes to me as a great shock, as it must be to his many other friends in this province and elsewhere.

"Dr Hall was imbued with the principles fundamental to true democracy. He was fully cognizant of the needs of the people and fought for them. That this province and country will suffer a severe loss in his untimely death, I have not the slightest doubt.

"He was a man who fought fearlessly for the betterment of conditions and took a firm stand on questions of the day. He was of the type that is needed in times such as these. My deep sympathy goes to his wife and family in their sad bereavement."

MULLEN COMMENTS

Hon. D. B. Mullen, minister of agriculture and member of the legislature for this city, in commenting on Dr. Hall's death, said:

"I feel that the people of this city have suffered a great loss in the death of Dr. Hall. We of the Social Credit movement have lost a faithful friend and a devoted protagonist. He took most seriously the fact that he was a representative of the people and in discharging his duties as such, he was at all times fully conscious of the weight of them and of the high ideals and principles that must at all times animate a public man. Edmonton and parliament are the poorer for his passing."

New Department Heads Appointed

VICTORIA, Jan. 26—Premier T. D. Pattullo announced Tuesday that E. G. Rowebottom of Victoria had been appointed deputy minister of trade and industry for British Columbia, and that W. Lloyd Craig of Vancouver would be director of the bureau of trade extension and industrial and tourist development established under the new trade and industry department.

C.P.R. Conductor Killed In Crash

INDIAN LOSING HUNTING CRAFT DUE TO WHITES

the caribou are. The caribou are on the move, and they may drift down into the Mackenzie area in a month or so, but the Indians have to live till then, and they are in a bad way. There are no caribou this year within one hundred miles of Lake Athabasca, and they are usually down and crossing the lake by this time."

Col. Cornwall himself saw thousands of caribou on his trip which took him 900 miles northeast of Edmonton to latitude 62 degrees north, on the headwaters of the Thelon river.

HUGE HERDS

"If I saw one I saw one hundred thousand caribou," he said, "but there are not many Indians in that area. They are all waiting for the caribou to come to them instead of going out after them as their forefathers would have done. Physically they are deteriorating fast and they are not able to live on the country like the old time Indian did."

Big packs of wolves are following the migrating caribou, said Col. Cornwall.

"They are big fellows, too," he said, "and unusually thick. There are many big black wolves among the bands which are bigger than ever. Wolves are about the only fur they are getting in the north this year as it is a bad fur year. There are no rabbits, and when there are no rabbits there is no fur, just as when there are no caribou there is no meat in the north."

A week ago Col. Cornwall was in a deserted Indian camp where the bodies of an old man and an old woman had been laid out in a cabin and left by the other members of the tribe who decamped after the old people were stricken with illness.

"There is an epidemic of some sort of fever which causes the Indians to break out into a rash like measles," he said. "Many of them are suffering, and at Fond du Lac about thirty have died of the disease."

Failure of the government officials at Ottawa to realize just what is happening to the northern Indians is resulting in their numbers growing less and less each year, said Col. Cornwall.

HASN'T ANY VOTE

"Ottawa is a long way away, and the Indian hasn't any vote. Indian affairs are in charge of an appointive civil servant who unfortunately is not in full possession of all the facts. The Indian is a ward of the government and can be controlled. He should be moved back into the area where game is still plentiful, and if this is done he has a chance. The opening up of the country for mining and other white man's activities has driven the caribou back, and the Indian should be moved back with the caribou so that he can carry on like his forefathers. Otherwise it won't be long until the Indian in the north will be a thing of the past."

Old time missionaries who have spent a lifetime in the north have been pressing for this for some time, said Col. Cornwall.

KNOW CONDITIONS

"They know conditions and they can tell the story," he said. "There are lots of places where the Indian can be concentrated where meat and fish is abundant, but unless the government in council is prepared to give the matter intelligent attention and take action, nothing can save the Indian. The caribou hasn't changed. There are just as many caribou today as there ever were, but the Indian has changed and is trying to live like a white man. As a result he is being moved out of the picture very rapidly."

Miners Refuse Risking Of Dam

EBBW VALE, England, Jan. 26—Four thousand Monmouthshire miners refused Tuesday to return to the pits after torrential rains and high winds revived alarm for a cracked mountain top dam among people of nearby Beaufort in the Ebbw valley.

Engineers asserted, however, there was no cause for alarm and that the water was controlled. Sixteen families living near the reservoir, emptied partly Monday, were moved as a precaution.

U.S. Is Declared Market For Canadian Dairy Cows

INCOME FOR HERD OWNERS IS POSSIBILITY

Only Quality Cattle Are Suitable, Deputy Minister Tells Farmers

OTTAWA, Jan. 26—There is a good market for Canadian dairy cows in the United States, and Great Britain, Dr. H. Barton, federal deputy minister of agriculture, said Tuesday in addressing a joint session of the Canadian Dairy Farmers' Federation and the Canadian Livestock conference.

"Only quality cattle, free from disease, will satisfy them," he said. "There is a chance for additional income for Canadian dairy herd owners with suitable cattle." Beef cattle farmers sometimes felt competition from dairy cows was unfair on the domestic market as it was low quality beef.

VEAL CALVES

Veal calves provided another source of income that should not be overlooked by the dairy farmers, he said. Export of live cows and selling of calves for veal would help prevent depressions on the beef market caused by old dairy cows, their time as milkers up, being thrown on it.

If 1938 is a good as 1937 Canadian dairy and cattle men, excepting those in the drought areas, should be reasonably satisfied, Barton said. Beef prices in 1937 were at a peak, the average price of hogs meant profit for some farmers, cheese and butter prices increased and sheep and lamb markets were firm.

"The recession in the United States is apparently having only a slight effect here. The best advice I get is one of optimism regarding recovery. Advices from Britain are reassuring."

ICE CREAM FACTORY

Forty per cent of dairy production went to milk; 30 per cent to butter, eight per cent to cheese and two per cent to other purposes, including ice cream, Dr. Barton said.

"Yet ice cream may exert a vital effect on the market. It should be a bigger stabilizing influence than it is."

The deputy minister said he believed ice cream quality generally had deteriorated since the time when it was the great Canadian Saturday night dessert.

"I don't think a better ice cream can be made without the use of more butterfat, though some will disagree," he said. The federal department had stepped up the minimum butterfat content for ice cream to 13 per cent from the former 10 but he thought it might be higher without hurting anybody.

R. H. M. Bailey, Edmonton, managing director of the Alberta Milk Producers' Association, told the Dairy Federation today of co-operation between the association and the Consumers' Research Council for the protection of producer and consumer.

Both bodies were turning attention to keeping down distribution costs, he said. Recently the Alberta Milk Control Board had rejected the application of Calgary distributors for higher retail prices.

ELIMINATE QUOTA

Elimination of the quota on Canadian cattle entering the United States under the reciprocal trade agreement should be the object of Canada, W. C. McKenzie, manager of the Southern Alberta Co-operative Association, told the livestock men.

If the quota on Canadian cattle going to the United States were removed, Canada should be prepared to make a return concession, he said. Such a step would do much to improve the Canadian livestock industry.

Less than one per cent of American domestic marketings were imported, said Mr. McKenzie, and he did not think removal of the Canadian quota would depress the market there.

The Canadian quota was tied up with a quota for Mexican cattle and he suggested that the Canadian government should seek to eliminate this feature from the agreement with the United States.

VICTIM WARNED AGAINST DAUM, NEW EVIDENCE

REGINA, Jan. 26.—Evidence that the late Norman Anderson was warned three times by his companions to stay away from the home of Jacob Daum at Southey, Sask., last Hallowe'en, was given in King's bench court Tuesday by Herman Zurowski, 22, as hearing of a murder charge against Daum began before Mr. Justice G. E. Taylor.

Daum is alleged to have slain Anderson, 20, by firing a shotgun through a door of his home as a group of Hallowe'en pranksters gathered outside.

Olga Manweiller, young Southey girl, testified she had been at the Daum home on the afternoon of Oct. 30 and in commenting that it was Hallowe'en had remarked to Daum: "I suppose you have got your gun loaded with salt." She said Daum replied: "I have something else."

ESCAPERS OF PENAL COLONY AT DEAD END

HAVANA, Jan. 26—Alternatives of deportation to France or return to the penal colony at Cayenne, French Guiana, from which they escaped, Tuesday faced four Frenchmen and one Italian who arrived in Cuba Friday after a 43-day trip in an open boat from Trinidad.

Heavy License Drives Gypsies Out Of Calgary

CALGARY, Jan. 26—Gypsy fortune-tellers have hit the trail from Calgary. The reason—a boost in license fees from $200 to $500, effective Jan. 1. Previously there were numerous Gypsy fortune-tellers in east end Calgary.

Births Holding Own In Canada

OTTAWA, Jan. 26—There seems to be no evidence of race suicide in Canada, judging by registration of births and deaths in cities and towns with 10,000 population or more. A report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics Tuesday showed only six of 63 cities and towns had more deaths than births in December. They were Charlottetown, Joliette, Que.; St. Hyacinthe, Que.; Belleville, Ont.; Guelph, Ont.; and Woodstock, Ont.

Books Are Wanted For Drouth Areas

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26—A drive for 2,000 books and 3,000 magazines for drought area residents of Alberta and Saskatchewan will be sponsored by the University of Manitoba's student council, Charles Mackenzie of the Manitoba university publication, said Tuesday.

COLD WAVE IS CLOSING OVER UNITED STATES

Dropping Temperature Ends Widespread Menace Of Floods

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—All across the United States temperatures fell last night in a chill prelude to a great new cold wave, freezing out a touch of false spring that had brought damaging gales and widespread menace of flood.

In every section—from the drenched, and in some cases dust swept prairies of te middle west to the southern bottomlands — colder weather was on the way.

In North Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska and Iowa, the thermometer dropped below zero Tuesday—to 18 below at Devil's Lake, N.D.

Some roads were blocked by snow in Wisconsin and southern Minnesota; a child of seven froze to death near Crocker, S.D.

Meanwhile, high winds, whipping warm rainfall, were subsiding along the Atlantic seaboard after causing much minor damage, hampering shipping and air travel.

Metropolitan New York was hit by 32-mile winds; incoming liners were delayed for hours by heavy seas.

SASKATCHEWAN NO-CONFIDENCE VOTE SWAMPED

REGINA, Jan. 26.—Division bells clanged in the Saskatchewan legislature Tuesday as the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation opposition moved non-confidence in the Liberal government of Premier W. J. Patterson. The 39 Liberals present voted solidly against the motion. All five C.C.F. members voted in favor.

The motion was put by G. H. Williams, Wadena, C.C.F. leader, after he had spoken for three and a half hours on the Throne speech debate, criticizing the government debt adjustment policy and on what he termed its laissez-faire attitude. L. H. Hantleman (C.C.F., Kindersley) was the seconder.

After the recorded vote, Premier Patterson adjourned debate and will speak when the house resumes today.

Croydon Sued For Typhoid Outbreak

LONDON, Jan. 26 — Geoffrey Price Gowland Tuesday brought suit against the local authorities of Croydon for alleged negligence contributing to the typhoid epidemic which has scourged the suburb south of the city.

The proceedings made the second action begun in the courts by residents of the Surrey town which has suffered 39 deaths and 290 cases of serious illness in the epidemic. Alfred Rend is suing for damages on the same grounds.

Modern Cinderella Come To Light

This is the Cinderella girl that New York suddenly discovered in its midst when 22-year-old Helga Gunderson, daughter of one of Norway's richest men, was found working as a chambermaid in a mid-town Manhattan hotel. Helga's suite-cleaning duties began after midnight and her identity was established when the occupant of one of the hotel's suites walked in while Helga was making the bed and recognized his dinner companion of the night before. It was easily explained: Helga works as a chambermaid to learn all about hotels because she is planning a career as hotel director. After work she goes to her own suite in the same hostelry. At left Miss Gunderson is pictured at a dinner given by the Norwegian consul in New York—at right, busy with her duties as hotel chambermaid.

Employees Over 40 Are Found Happier On Jobs

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 25—Employees over 40 were found happier on their jobs than those under 40 in a study "On the causes of labor unrest" made public today by Charles C. Stech, research and labor relations specialist.

In one respect only, of 15 questions asked, were the young and old equally satisfied and that was the extent to which their job security was based on merit.

The studies were made on 7,500 department store employees of all classes, in six states of the United States—California, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maryland, New York and Massachusetts. More than one-third of the persons questioned were 40 or over.

In their replies the employees expressed their degree of satisfaction.

Following are the conditions which the older employees found more satisfactory than the younger, given with the percentage of increased satisfaction.

Recognition for phases of good work which are easy to overlook: 20 per cent.

General wage fairness: 15.

Physical working conditions: 12.

Wages compared with other companies: 12.

Help from superiors to do good work: 12.

Efficiency of superiors in planning: 11.

Freedom to choose equally good methods of work: 11.

Observance of principle of equal pay for equal work: 8.

Being kept informed of results enough to keep working interesting: 8.

Opportunities for advancement: 7.

Prompt wages increases when merited: 7.

Not being embarrassed by criticism in the presence of others: 5.

Encouragement for showing initiative: 5.

Appreciation from superiors: 5.

"Men and women over 40," Mr. Stech stated, "are better satisfied with working conditions affecting their efficiency, well-being and happiness than the younger group."

South Carolina used whiskey as a measure of value in the barter system which sprung up after the collapse of the continental currency in 1780.

Fire Destroys Shinto Shrine In New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—The Shinto shrine and the Rainbow Dragon, in the Brooklyn Botanical Gardens—visited by more than 1,000,000 persons annually—were destroyed by fire Tuesday.

Declaring "No lighted cigarette or match carelessly dropped would have started the fire," Montague Free, horticulturist in charge, said he would ask for an investigation.

New Operation Relieves Pain of Angina Pectoris

LONDON, Jan. 26.—A new operation which connects the heart and part of the abdomen by use of plastic surgery is described in Lancet, the British medical journal. The operation is to relieve the pain of angina pectoris.

The abdominal part tied to the heart is the omentum, an "apron" or fold of the peritoneum serving to cover the abdomen. Normally the omentum and heart are in different parts of the body, separated by the diaphragm.

In the new operation a "pedicle flap," a roll of tissue like the handle of a trunk, is taken in the omentum. One end of this tube-shaped roll of the omentum is passed through an opening made in the diaphragm. The upper end of the omentum tissue is stitched to the heart. The result is a permanent tube connecting omentum and heart.

Reason for this is that the omentum is rich in blood vessels. The tube gives an extra source of blood supply to the muscles of the heart.

The new operation, says Lancet, has been done on 15 persons. Ten of these were alive six months afterwards. Nine of the 10 had lost their angina pains. Seven, who previously were unable to work due to pain, had gone back to their jobs.

These operations were done by Laurence O'Shaughnessy with the aid of Dr. Daniel T. Davies and Dr. H. E. Mansell. Before use on human beings, the operations were tried on greyhounds.

Flaming Aurora Lights Heavens Over England

By PAT USSHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 26—The northern lights—a familiar spectacle to most Canadians but rarely seen in England—hit the front pages of British newspapers last night.

Britons for two hours after sunset watched the brilliant spectacle of a sky lit up with waving shafts of light flashing in colors of red, gold and purple.

A dearth of important happenings and the rarity of aurora borealis made the spectacle "news."

The display was seen widely in England, Scotland and Wales as well as in Holland, Austria, Spain and Italy. It was the most brilliant for many years in the United Kingdom and in many places was the first recorded within living memory.

The aurora was one of the vagaries of England's warmest January of the present century. Since new year's day there has been no frost in southern England and London's fare has been a mixture of mild rains and warm sunshine. The mercury hit 53 on Monday. The rainfall thus far this month has been over the average, maintaining the tradition that January is getting progressively wetter.

H. S. Jones, astronomer royal, attributed the aurora to a magnetic storm in the sun and added it was "the finest display I can remember."

Hundreds climbed to rooftops for a glimpse of the glow which led some to think a big fire had broken out. The Windsor fire department was called out in the belief Windsor Castle was afire.

The lights were clearly seen in Italy, Spain and Gibraltar. The glow bathing snowclad mountaintops in Austria and Switzerland was a beautiful sight.

Paris-London airliners circled above the English channel so that passengers could enjoy the sight.

Shortwave radio connections between London and New York were disrupted by the electrical disturbance.

Trackless Trolleys Seen Traffic Problem Answer

CALGARY, Jan. 26. — The trackless trolley bus system is viewed as "the answer to our transportation problems" by Charles Comba, superintendent of the Calgary municipal street railway.

"I personally think the trackless trolleys will be the answer to street railway problems in the future," he said.

It would be at least two years, however, he added, before Calgary could hope to plan for the introduction of a system to supplant street cars.

Mr. Comba stated Tuesday informal negotiations had been carried on during the past week with representatives of a company manufacturing trackless trolleys and they were in Edmonton this week to see heads of the street railway system there.

"They have been experimenting with them in the city of Montreal for some time," Mr. Comba said. "Information we have received would indicate they are an outstanding success."

The busses cost about $17,000 each, he said, against $21,000 for street cars.

THE UTILITIES

Edmonton's five utility enterprises last year paid taxes amounting to $636,935 and in addition turned over net profits of $475,078. A total of $1,111,913 thus went into the city treasury from the earnings of these five utilities.

The general tax levy for the year was $3,874,000. The total levy imposed by taxes of all kinds, including the supplementary revenue tax levied by the province, was $3,685,000 in round figures. The utilities thus contributed upwards of one-half as much to the treasury as was demanded from property-holders. And upwards of one-third as much as the entire amount demanded in tax levies of all kinds, including the taxes levied on the utilities themselves.

Quite evidently Edmonton's utilities are doing well by the city financially. Which is of course another way of saying that the users of these services are paying through the rates charged a very substantial part of the revenue collected by the city—about 30 per cent of the total in fact. But for that income the mill-rate on property would stand somewhere around the 70 mark. Perhaps it would be well above that mark.

SOUTH AFRICA TO ARM

South Africa is launching a defence scheme. For several reasons, peculiar significance attaches to this item of news. One is immediately interesting to Canadians.

Few has no warmer friend or stouter champion than General Jan Smuts. Nothing short of conviction that there is a danger to be met would induce him to lend aid to a policy of armament. No one has given steadier support to the League of Nations. Fought more valiantly for "collective security." And none among the world leaders knows better than he what war means to victors and vanquished.

Smuts is widely typical of his compatriots. They are men of peace. War for them no glories to be coveted and no prizes to be won. Their country needs only peace to assure it a future of prosperity and contentment. When these men say they intend to build arms defence and put the Union in a state of defence that has to be taken as the unwilling decision of men who feel they have to choose between inclination and safety.

Abyssinia is the reason South Africa is to arm. When it was struck down "collective security" went down too. Smuts and his colleagues know that. They are acting accordingly.

MORE BUYERS

Canadian manufacturers turned out 28 per cent more automobiles last year than in 1936, a total of 207,000 cars. They exported 18 per cent more than in the preceding year, shipments abroad totalling more than 65,000 units. This despite the fact that 20,000 cars were imported into Canada last year, against 9,903 the year before.

The automobile industry is one—one of many —which invariably do better when trade restrictions are relaxed than when they are too tightly drawn. What is happening now also happened years ago when Hon. James Robb revised the tariff downward. The auto-makers did not approve that reduction since it widened the opportunity for importing foreign cars.

In fact, they and their employees staged something like a rebellion when the announcement was made. But the protests speedily subsided under an avalanche of orders, and the factories had to go into overtime to keep up with the call for more cars from buyers at home and abroad.

History has been repeating in that respect during the last couple of years, under the renewed policy of modified tariff and increasing trade. For the reason that more people can afford to buy cars when business is briak than could do so when it was throttled by prohibitive tariffs.

THE STREET RAILWAY

Only one of the city's utilities lost money last year—the street railway. It lost money only because it had to pay $120,342 taxes to the city. Disregarding taxes, it had a profit of $21,807.

These figures suggest strongly that council would do well to consider the matter very carefully before raising street railway fares, as proposed in the commissioners' report. It has been common practice to refer to the utilities as a "group" in calculating their financial position, the idea being that a loss on one should be offset against the profits earned by the others. On that basis there is obviously no ground whatever to raise railway fares, the loss of the railway—taxes paid—being less than 10 per cent of the profits turned in by the other four.

The position of the street railway, taken by itself, is by no means alarming. It gave the city $120,000 last year, by going $96,000 in debt. The city could pay the debt and still be $21,000 to the good.

To recondition the street railway will, it is calculated, require $56,000 per year over a ten-year period. If the system were not required to pay taxes it could have provided the $56,000 last year by going behind only $35,000. And, with no increase at all in revenue, it could in the ten years pay the entire cost of reconditioning itself by going only $350,000 in the red.

Edmonton is a growing city. Revenue of the street railway, and of each of the other utilities, grows with it. The profits of the utility group for last year were 18 per cent higher than for 1936. A further increase of the same amount in the group profits would give the city twice the $56,000 per year required to recondition the street railway, over and above the amount turned into the treasury last year, with no increase in street railway fares and no accumulation of debt.

WHY RECOVERY?

Wages paid in British Columbia last year, it is estimated, reached a total of $150,000,000. The population of the province is approximately three-quarters of a million. The distribution of that huge sum among employees, added to the spendings of employers and others who draw their incomes from business and investments, sufficiently explains the good times now prevailing across the mountains.

Where did the money come from, and what caused the distribution? The answer is to be found in the fact that in 1933 the payrolls totalled only $99,000,000. The province contained in that year as much real wealth as at present. The difficulty was that buyers were scarce, inside Canada and out. Lumber and other important products were drugs on the market, and no one was investing money in developing mineral deposits.

Which, of course, only pushes the enquiry back a step. Why did the dormant demand for these things come to life? And how is it that would-be buyers who couldn't buy in 1933 are able to buy now in such prodigious quantities?

The immediately important thing is that buying has been resumed after years of trade paralysis. But the ultimately important thing is how it came to be resumed. If that were known it might give a clue as to how another depression can be prevented or at least modified. Surely in this age of scientific enquiry it is not enough to just say that a thing happened. Why —that is the question to which intelligent people would like an answer, just as they demand an answer to the same question in respect to disease, crime, and other important phenomena.

This is the economist's second chance. He tried for years, without recognized success, and without agreeing with his fellows, to explain why the depression came upon the world. His job now is to find out why it has been receding for two or three years. If he can locate the answer to this new question it may indicate the answer to the former one also.

Fifty Years Ago

The board of trustees of Edmonton school district held a meeting in P. G. Gray's office. M. McCauley was elected chairman and C. F. Strang was re-appointed secretary. Jas. Martin was re-engaged as teacher at a salary of $1,000 for the year.

THEY CAME BACK

For the 10th year, Alabama tries out its "Christmas parole" plan for "most worthy" prison convicts.

Bound only by "word of honor, man-to-man" compacts with Gov. Bibb Graves and their wardens, the men and women were sent home for a christmas "vacation" of two weeks, at the end of which time they came straggling back to serve the rest of their sentences.

Last year only seven out of several hundred failed to return. This year the record was better. It proves that even men and women convicted of crime can be relied upon if given something to work toward, some incentive to better conduct. The novel plan, already justified by 10 years of experience, is a bright spot on a penal system that still has altogether too many dark sides.—Ottawa Citizen.

CENSORSHIP GONE WILD

At intervals there appears further evidence that Germany's dictatorial rulers do not trust a suppressed people, and that is natural enough. No element of humanity submits entirely to government according to the whim of absolute rulers. Outwardly, dictators may appear secure; but, though it dare not become vocal, there is a strong feeling of resentment, and this must be curbed.

Hence the censorship of any spoken or written views that might encourage this dumb but rebellious element. But censorship in Germany has reached its most astute and ridiculous form in the banning of a collection of speeches by former Premier Baldwin of Britain and President Roosevelt of the United States. These are branded as "undesira'le literature."

The English-speaking section of humanity is fairly familiar with addresses delivered by these two outstanding leaders. Both are democrats; both speak the language of the common people. And isn't Germany full of common people? There's the point; and they must be kept down, remain voiceless. There could be no disputing, even in Germany, Earl Baldwin's statement in one address that "government, of whatever kind, tends more and more to influence the lives of the people." But what follows is different: "And if the liberty of the individual is to be preserved it is vital that the individual should know what is going on, should form his own opinions, should give his judgment, for that is the foundation of orderly, democratic government."

That would be enough to ban the Baldwin speeches in a country where the individual does not count.

It does not matter greatly to either of these speakers, but the banning indicates a fear that dominates the dictatorial mind lest some plain truths about the rights of ordinary people should seep through to a regimented and till now submissive population.—Toronto Globe and Mail.

THE U.F.A. CONVENTION

There has been a lot of tactical manoeuvering mixed up in Alberta politics recently which has only added to the confusion created by the famous master strategy of the Social Credit forces. Political parties have skirmished for advantageous positions, have sent out feelers seeking alliances only to reject or break them later and generally all have engaged in a new game, a combination of mutual back-scratching and mutual throat-cutting.

In this murky mess the United Farmers of Alberta have occupied a prominent position. It, too, or its leaders have dickered and traded with other groups but without apparent result. Some time ago there were indications that the party, or some of its leading members, would line up with the Prague-Conservative-Labor-MacFarland establishment to oust Mr. Aberhart. But other party leaders stood out of the proposed arrangement. It became evident there was a difference of opinion, a split developing in the U.F.A.

That division of opinion became apparent at the party convention last week during a series of votes to decide on political action or no political action and if political action then what kind? In general the rank and file people were strongly in favor of allowing constituency locals to go their own way in political matters. That is they could line up with other organizations as they saw fit. But the women thought otherwise. They preferred to continue as an independent and active political organization operating on their own. And so it is.

But two decisions on this question are interesting. One was the direct refusal to cooperate with the C.C.F., a decision seemingly concurred in by the women, and reached in spite of strong urgings in support of co-operation by William Irvine, President Gardiner considered that the Social Credit idea had not caught on in Alberta and therefore it would be advisable not to link up with the C.C.F.

The other interesting point was the manner in which a feeler for co-operation, sent out by the Social Credit people, was received. A few days before the U.F.A. convention, the Social Credit convention passed a resolution proposing a "united front" in the federal field to promote "economic freedom" through the "control of credit." The original wire sent to President Gardiner of the U.F.A. He invited the Social Credit people to send a speaker who would be willing to answer questions. And the Social Credit authorities replied their intention merely was to voice U.F.A. feeling. When brought before the U.F.A. convention the proposal was greeted with gusts of derisive laughter. That expressed the feelings of the members.

There are some reflections that at this convention the U.F.A. would withdraw from direct political action and return to the position it took at its start 30 years ago. The vote in favor of doing so was substantial but not a majority when the women's vote was taken into consideration. But it seems evident that the feeling of members is steadily moving toward a confining of the organization's activities to the economic field. Another year or two or another election in which the U.F.A. is unsuccessful probably will complete the cycle.—Saskatoon Star-Phoenix.

FOREIGN CONCESSIONS

Britain's rights in Shanghai date back to 1842, when the treaty which broke down trade in Canton over trading rights, Hong Kong was ceded to her, and the "flats" along Soochow Creek in Shanghai turned over, together with concessions in three other ports, by the Treaty of Nanking. The American concession, now Hongkew, was joined with the British some twenty years later to form the International Settlement. Thus the "open city" was established, or what is known as extraterritorial rights, meaning that those living in the Settlement were beyond Chinese jurisdiction, subject only to the laws of their own countries.

It was under the same treaty that Britain obtained assurances that inland waterways would be opened to steamer navigation and trading privileges covering the Yangtse Valley. Being free of Chinese jurisdiction, the responsibility of their own protection fell to the "foreigners," and each has since undertaken to police its own "territory." These rights should not be confused with the rights held by the various nations in the North China Provinces, which derive from the Boxer Protocol, signed in 1902 following the anti-foreign uprising of the Boxers, a group of malcontents calling themselves "the Fist of Righteous Harmony."

Terms of the protocol (there were several preliminary ones) were written by Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Japan, and joined in by the United States following the revolution of 1911. By them China agreed to "legation quarters" being established in and around Peiping, which would be reserved for the use of the respective powers, each of whom was to be defended by its own forces, the Chinese government refusing to accept responsibility for the malcontents and bandit hordes. Certain forts between the capital and the sea coast were destroyed as assurance that open commerce would be maintained. Foreign concessions, established along the routes of communication. Beyond those rights the legations had no more authority than they would have in Nanking. Too, there were specified limitations on the number of troops, latterly fixed at 2,000 (500 for Italy, 300 for Russia), which maximum was not to be concentrated at one point.

That Japan has paid little attention to the terms of the protocol is not for dispute. But, whether she did or didn't, it is fairly clear that defense of her nationals did not require war on the scale in which she is now engaged. But, that apart, whatever her excuses or justification for the war, it does not eliminate the rights of others. The International Settlement is British and United States territory, and just as much to be defended, even should she conquer all China, as Gibraltar or the Virgin Islands.—Toronto Globe and Mail.

Your Health

By DR. FRANK McCOY

The cure of acne depends upon the elimination of those excess materials in the blood stream which have produced the disease. This is best accomplished by a short fast on water and fruit juices, and adopting a diet free from sweet and greasy foods. The juices which may be used are those of orange, grapefruit, tomatoes, and pineapple. When fresh fruits are in season, the whole fruit may be substituted for the juices, if desired, using cherries, apricots, grapes, etc. The fruit juice regimen is to be continued for at least five days and during that time the patient is to take one plain warm water enema each day.

Following the fruit juice schedule it is advisable to use large quantities of the non-starchy vegetables, both cooked and raw, especially such vegetables as carrots, spinach, asparagus, beets, string beans, artichokes, eggplant, endive, celery and similar foods.

A moderate amount of meat may be taken daily with these vegetables in cooked and salad form, and stewed fruit and gelatin may be used for dessert. Avoid principally those foods which are rich in fats and sugar, such as doughnuts, cakes, pies, pancakes, sausage, rich cheese, fried foods, candies and similar rich preparations.

It is a good plan to avoid all sweet desserts and rich foods, sticking to plain simple meals. The drinking of several glasses of water daily is advisable and the water drinking should be continued until the skin condition begins to clear up.

In caring for the affected skin areas, use warm water and soap at least twice each day. The soap will help to remove the excess oil present on the skin surface and will also act as an antiseptic. At the beginning of the treatment it is often helpful to steam the face in order to soften the blackheads. This may be done by applying towels wrung out of hot water. After steaming gently, using one hot towel after another, press out the blackheads with the fingers, protecting the skin from injury by the nails by using a clean towel under the fingertips. An even better way is to purchase a comedone extractor at a drug-store. Follow this treatment by using alcohol on the skin.

In especially stubborn cases, the affected area may be treated effectively by means of local treatment given with the ultra violet ray generator or "lamp." This type of treatment is particularly helpful when it is desired to overcome the unnatural condition of the skin within a short time. The object in this treatment is to produce a mild peeling of the skin. As the old skin peels off, the fresh new skin from underneath will be exposed. Very often, the results secured from this treatment are most gratifying and a fairly rapid improvement may be secured in this way.

The skin may be further stimulated by bathing the entire body each day. It is often a good plan to use the salt glow by wetting the body all over and then rubbing the skin with common salt until it glows, finishing with a cold shower bath. The salt should be kept away from the affected patches. It must not be used too often.

It is important that the patient with acne take vigorous and full exercises every each day to strengthen the important adbominal muscles. These will be of value in helping to overcome the tendency to constipation. Many patients using a combination treatment such as I have suggested have been able to secure excellent results in overcoming acne.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Jeannette C. asks: "Ten days ago I slipped and fell forward on my coccyx, which has been very sore and tender. Today I noticed that a red spot has formed on the skin over the site of the injury and this is so painful that it feels as sore as a boil. Will you tell me what to do?"

ANSWER: I have no way of knowing without examining you whether a boil is actually developing or not. There is a possibility that in your fall you may have fractured the coccyx. Instead of trying to treat the trouble yourself, the best plan is for you to go to your doctor and be examined. I suggest that it would be an excellent idea to have an X-ray made of the coccyx to determine whether it has been fractured.

QUESTION: Roderick J. writes: "My brother has been sick a lot this winter with colds, pneumonia, and indigestion. He seems to be mending now, but his temperature is a little below normal. Have you any advice as to this symptom?"

ANSWER: As a general rule, a subnormal temperature is an indication of lowered vitality, especially when it occurs in a patient whose general health is otherwise good. There are undoubtedly many people of average health in whom the temperature is persistently low; sometimes as low as 97 degrees. In fact, it has been estimated that in about 10 per cent of the population, the temperature is consistently below 98 degrees and this includes those seemingly in fair health. Very often, this lowered temperature persists even though the basal metabolic rate is normal.

Old Country Letter

By J. E. NORCROSS

LONDON, Eng., (By Mail)—The word "retire" is not to be found in Lord Hewart's bright lexicon. The Lord Chief Justice of England is one of the sturdiest opponents of the view that judges, like men in other great professions, the Army and Navy, for instance, should cease work on reaching a certain age.

Lord Hewart was 68 the other day. In another month or two he will have completed his sixteenth year of service in the high office he holds, a longer tenure than that of any of his predecessors. Lord Alverstone's term 1900 to 1913, comes next.

J. E. Norcross

He saw nothing remarkable in the length of time he had been Lord Chief Justice, Lord Hewart told an interviewed "I have merely completed the first fifteen years of my term of office, and am now in the first year of my second period of fifteen years. The third fifteen years will be the real 'failing time.'"

He had never felt better in his life, he continued. After all he was only 68 and it was quite reasonable that he should look forward to another twenty years of work.

"There have been some very remarkable old judges," Lord Howard added. "I remember arguing a difficult case before a judge who was over ninety and whose mind was as clear and alert as that of anybody in the court.

"Then there was my dear friend, Mr. Justice Avory, who worked with unabated keenness until he was 83; and I think of another old friend whom I saw again in Canada not long ago Sir William Mulock, Chief Justice of Ontario, who is nearly 94 years old, and was still sitting on the bench in his 93rd year . . . I propose to emulate Sir William Mulock."

IT was remarked in the course of this correspondence a week or two ago that Lord Hewart began life as a reporter on a newspaper in his native town, Bury, Lancashire. It is from Bury, by the way, that he takes his title, Lord Hewart of Bury.

Lord Hewart won his way through grammar school (the equivalent of the Canadian high school) by scholarships. Not until he was 12 did he begin his legal career. Within the next twenty years he had become a most successful barrister, a king's counsel, solicitor-general, a knight, attorney-

On This Date

A Day in Canadian History

By FRED WILLIAMS

On this date, (January 26, 1905) the province of Ontario was contemplating the effect of the political cyclone which swept the polling booths the previous day. The Liberal government, which had held office without a flaw from 1872 to 1896 under Oliver Mowat, and had still functioned, despite certain creaking in its "innards", had been smashed worse than any modern automobile when it comes into conflict with an immovable obstacle. The Ross ministry had been hanging on by the skin of its teeth for a few years: "Old Man Ontario" did the job quite thoroughly while he was about it.

James P. Whitney (sneered at as the "small town lawyer from Dundas",) was told by the people of Ontario to take office. When he took hold of the party there were only 26 Conservatives in the assembly; his influence in the province grew not fleetly, almost 20 years after his leadership began, he carried 69 seats, leaving the Liberals with only 29, a loss of 22 seats.

Then came a Tory regime until 1919, when Ontario voters decided to change again. That time the United Farmers were given a chance, but in 1923 they were kicked out and the Tories went back until 1934, when, deprived of the magnetism of George Howard Ferguson, their machine was wrecked, and the Liberals got back to office after being in the wilderness for 29 years.

RADIO PROGRAMS

Editor, Bulletin: I noticed yesterday in the editorial page, complaint against the C.B.C. wanting to raise the fee for the radio license. The writer, apparently did not like the C.B.C. ads on the air, but he failed to notice what the local stations was doing in the same line of work.

I don't like those ads at all but at least the C.B.C. gives us some nice programs and put a little art in their ads. On the other hand, the local stations are very annoying with their raw ads, and furthermore, they spend too much time for the individuals in their different clubs, and not enough for the general public. Sometimes the band seems to be a nuisance with all those blurbs.

A BURNING REBUKE

Editor, Bulletin: A poem by Robert Burns, not published in any volume of the Scottish bard's poems, is in possession of Mrs. John Moffatt, of St. Andrews. Burns had been invited by a nobleman to go with a party on an excursion to the Bass Rock, and on returning to the nobleman's castle had been sent to the servants' hall to dine. When the lord and his guests had finished dining above they were sent for Burns to entertain the company. Burns wrote the following poem and presented it to his host, then turned on his heel and retired.

BURNS' REPLY TO A LORD'S INVITATION

My lord I would not fill your chair,
Tho ye be proudest nobles heir.
I came this night to joint your feast
As equal to the best at least.
Tis true that cash with me is scant,
And titles trifles that I want,
But have no mean nor servile mind
To stamp my manhood with his seal.
But what of that? The king on high
Who took less pains with you than I,
Has filled my bosom and my mind
With something better of its kind
Than your broad acres, something which
I can not translate into speech,
But by its impulse I can know
Tis deeds, not birth, that makes men low.
Your rank, my lord, is but a loan,
But man, thank Heaven, is all my own.
A peasant, tis my pride to be;
Look round and round your hall and see
Who boasts of higher pedigree.
I was not fit, it seems, to dine
With those fox-hunting heroes fine.
But only came to bandy jests
Among your lordship's hopeful guests.
There must be here some sad mistake,
I would not play for such a stake;
Be a buffoon for drink and meal,
And a good supper's all I feel.
No, die my heart, ere such a shame
Descends on Robert Burns' name.
ROBERT BROWN,
7434 Jasper Ave., Edmonton.

Sunshine Shafts

Stopping to pass the time of day with a farmer on a tourist jaunt that the farmer's father, 90 years old, was still living and working on the farm where he was born.

"Ninety years old, eh?" asked the tourist.

"Yes, father is close on ninety," the farmer replied.

"Is his health good?"

"Ain't much now. He's been complainin' for a few months back."

"What's the matter with him?"

"Where he was born."

"Then I think farmin' don't agree with him."

An excellent chicken formed part of the fare at a luncheon attended by two parsons.

After lunch they wandered over the grounds and noticed a rooster strutting on the lawn. One of the parsons remarked, and his host seemed very pleased with himself."

"No wonder," replied their host, "considering one of his sons has just entered the ministry."

"You will understand," said the elocution teacher, "that when I bring my hands in the air and move my lips without being heard, I am giving a picture of profound mental anguish."

"I am glad to know that," answered the pupil. "I thought you were giving an imitation of a traffic policeman."

Every Institution Can Be Made Fire-Safe Is Claim

PUBLIC COULD MAKE DEMAND FULL SAFETY

Majority Of Fires Can Be Prevented, Commissioner Declares

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—Every institution in Canada could be made substantially fire-safe in six months if action were demanded by the public, J. Greve Smith, Dominion fire commissioner, stated Tuesday in a bulletin issued to members of the Dominion Fire Prevention Association in reference to the recent college fire at St. Hyacinthe, Que.

From 1922 to 1937, the bulletin said 4,235 fires occurred in Canadian colleges, schools and convents and the causes were determined in 2,012 cases. In 1,962 cases, or 73 per cent of those in which cause was determined, defectively or carelessly installed and maintained heating equipment was to blame.

REGULAR INSPECTION

"Many years of experience has convinced this office that the majority of these fires might be prevented by thorough and regular inspection and by rigid enforcement of reasonable maintenance regulations," Mr. Smith stated.

"As a practical means to this end I would recommend that local school authorities everywhere in Canada adopt and use the standard school inspection forms approved by the Dominion Fire Prevention Association.

"While it may be possible to curtail the number of fires in school buildings by the removal and safeguarding of the more obvious hazards there is no question that many of the older buildings now in use have inherent structural defects that cannot so readily be eliminated.

In eight major fires since 1922, not including St. Hyacinthe, a total of 342 lives had been lost. Of 3,000 Canadian lives lost by fire in the past 10 years, 2,100 fatalities occurred in burning buildings and not one of them in a "fire-retardant structure."

"The conclusion is obvious," the bulletin says, "the only safe building is the relatively incombustible one. Fire escapes and emergency exits are, at best, expedients adopted to meet exigencies invited by inadequate construction.

"Every public building, at least, should be designed for the protection of its occupants. Yet more than 90 per cent of our institutional buildings of the older type are veritable fire-traps whose external grid-iron escapes symbolize a lack of imagination that is pathetic."

When Is One From Country Or From Town

OTTAWA, Jan. 26—The members of the Rowell Commission tried to get a definition of "rural" and "urban" Tuesday—but they only learned that "what was not predominantly rural was urban."

The matter, it seemed, was more difficult than a hasty thought would suggest.

Ald. W. H. Biggar of Montreal, one of the delegation appearing for the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, explained the situation.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics had not arrived at a specific definition, awaiting international agreement under which statistics of all nations would be uniform, he said. In the meantime they were using a negative kind of definition, saying what was not obviously rural was urban.

As a matter of fact, Ald. Biggar said, there was no uniformity even among the provinces. some "towns" and "villages" of the west being really rural.

51,000 Refugees Die Since August

SHANGHAI, Jan. 26.—Death has set a swift pace for the Shanghai Benevolent Burial Association's seven morgue wagons. Disease, starvation and exposure, the association said today, has cost the lives of 51,000 Chinese refugees and poor since Shanghai fighting started last August.

Ambassador

Count Rene Doynel de Saint-Quenton (above), has been appointed French ambassador to the United States. A bachelor and 54 years of age, Count de Saint-Quenton succeeds Georges Bonnet in the Washington post.

Grieving Relatives At Murder Trial

Grief lies in the faces of the three women most affected by the murder case of Paul Wright, 36, former airport executive. The three are shown above in a Los Angeles court room as Wright went on trial for slaying his wife Evelyn, and his friend, John A. Kimmel. At right is 24-year-old Natalie McBride, sister of the slain woman, her face twisted with suffering. Somewhat calmer are Mrs. Edith Wrightin mother, centre, and Mrs. Maureen Kimmel, left, widow of the man who was killed with Mrs. Wright when her husband allegedly found them together in a compromising situation.

TAUNTER OF DUCE PASSES OF OLD AGE

ROME, Jan. 26—Luigi Lanfranconi, 65, described as one who ridiculed Mussolini and Fascism and got away with it, died Tuesday at Gallarate. Mussolini was reported much amused by the jester and frequently received him.

WINNIPEG FACES CONTROL UNDER ADMINISTRATOR

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26—Premier Bracken warned Winnipeg city council Tuesday failure to provide a solution of its relief problems would result in Winnipeg being placed under some sort of supervision so its government could continue to function.

The city council committee handling the relief financing negotiations, will meet this morning.

Two Winnipeg M.L.A.'s, Col. R. H. Webb, Conservative, and James Litterick, Communist, charged the city council with refusing to take a definite stand for fear of losing votes. Col. Webb moved the resolution asking the city to bring forth a new proposal and it passed 30 to 8.

JUST SHOT AND SHOT AND SHOT, MAN CONFESSES

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26.—Paul A. Wright's dramatic confession of how he "shot, shot and shot" when he found his wife and his friend, John Kimmel, in an embrace was presented Tuesday to the jury trying him for murder.

Wright, former airport executive, sat impassively while the confession was read.

S. Ernest Roll of the prosecution read the statement, which V. B. Browne, Glendale, Calif., police chief, testified was made by Wright.

In his highlights Wright said:

"Things went perfectly until he hit . . . I didn't think . . . I wanted to destroy the vision of that girl sitting there on the piano stool kissing that man and he her. . . . I just shot, shot, shot. . . .

Windsor Asks Quietness For Hours Of Night

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 26.—The civic works committee wants quiet in Windsor from 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. The committee recommended Tuesday that a bylaw be passed prohibiting shouting, sounding of horns or any other noise that might disturb the citizens.

HUSKY YOUTHS LIGHT FINGERED ON HEAVY LOOT

CALGARY, Jan. 26—The McCabe brothers, Albert and James, go in for "heavy theft." They pleaded guilty Tuesday to stealing 60 bags of cement. Their father's plea for leniency was heard by Magistrate A. J. Millar. He fined them $10 each.

TRY TO JUMP OFF TRAIN IS DEATH CAUSE

STETTLER, Alta., Jan. 26—A coroner's jury decided here Tuesday that Johan Glas, 43-year-old Federal district farmer, was killed when he attempted to jump off a Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train near here Monday.

He was en route to Calgary with the body of his wife. She died last Friday.

Inquest witnesses said he appeared despondent and acted "queerly" while on the train. He fell clear of the train but suffered a fractured skull when his head hit the ties.

The verdict read: We, the jury find that Johan Glas came to his death from a blow struck on the head caused while trying to jump off a train while in motion January 24.

Accompanying the D.D.G.M. from Vermilion were "Bros. Bill" W. G. Cawston, C. Holland, E. F. Berrisford and A. H. Jealous.

Sergeant Heacock Is Presented With Medal For Service

VEGREVILLE, Jan. 26.—Sergeant Heacock of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police was presented with a medal for 20 years of meritorious service, at the regular meeting of the Board of Trade here. Neil Primrose made the presentation and then sketched the history of the Mounted Police, explaining in a very interesting manner why the men wore red coats. At the first they wore the regulation green, but the Indians did not trust them because they insisted that the Queen's men were red coats. Thus the colour was changed from green to red.

Rebekah Officers Installed At Meet

THREE HILLS, Jan. 26—Installation of the Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge No. 50 officers took place recently when Sister Belle Peterson, D.D.P., and her staff officiated. Two Edmonton Rinks Advance Jasper 'Spiel

JASPER, Jan. 26.—Jack Hays and Neil Maclean rinks from Edmonton are still in the running at the Jasper Park annual bonspiel. At the conclusion of Tuesday night's draw Bert Robinson, Jasper, was the only unbeaten rink. He meets Hays in today's draw in the semi-final of the Grand Challenge, and the winner will meet Blackloch in the finals of the event.

Maclean and Hays are still playing in the Canadian National and C. W. Boon events. These will reach the fours today. The Visitors' competition has also been played. Four rinks, Maxwell and Bob Robinson, Edson, and Maclean and Hays, Edmonton, will compete.

In the King Edward cup event Carlson and Robinson meet in the semi-finals, also Hargreaves and Maxwell of Edson.

Viking Farmers Elect Officers

VIKING, Jan. 26.—The Viking Farmers' Co-operative Creamery Association held their annual meeting on January 18th and re-elected the full slate of officers and directors as follows: President, Geo. A. Loan; vice-president, L. O. Wollen; directors, F. H. Brown, D. Gallagher, John Child, John Rozmahel, Sr., A. A. Burnham, Tom Berg, Hans Hanson. Several of these directors have been on the board since the organization of the society in 1909. J. J. Skalitzky was retained as manager and salesman, and H. Robinson as cream grader. The association issued at the end of the year bonus cheques to patrons and shareholders alike of $2,000.

F. Clarke Speaks To Woodworkers

WHITECOURT, Jan. 26.—A large crowd attended the meeting of the Whitecourt branch of the International Woodworkers of America, C.I.O. affiliate, when the organizer F. Clarke, discussed the latest changes in the minimum wage law. Mr. Clarke is going to the bush to continue his work and expects to get a good many new members for the organization.

ROBERT BURNS WAS PROPHET, R. MUIR SAYS

Robert Burns combined the talents of poet, philosopher and prophet, Robert Muir told the Cosmopolitan club Tuesday at a luncheon meeting in the Corona hotel. He was speaking on the 179th birthday anniversary of Scotia's immortal bard. President Jack Coburn presided.

"Burns was a prophet because he wrote and sang the songs of freedom that anticipated the democracy we have in the British Empire in the 20th century," Mr. Muir declared.

"He was a great champion of the oppressed . . . a master at lampooning the tyrant, the hypocrite and the cranks. He was, in fact, the typical Scotsman. He sounded the trumpet call of democracy and left a great heritage of literature that will live for all time," he stated.

In the 37 years of his life, Burns crowded "a tremendous amount" of living as a farmer, a government official and a writer; he had remarkable mental prowess, Mr. Muir said.

B.C. WOMAN IS MILLIONTH MAYO PATIENT

ROCHESTER, Minn., Jan. 26—Mrs. David B. Lumsden, Salmo, B.C. Tuesday became the 1,000,000th patient to register at the Mayo clinic here. The first patient under the present lasting clinic registration system was T. P. Taint, also of British Columbia, who registered here July 19, 1907.

Little Lady, You've Had a Very Busy 100th Birthday

CALGARY, Jan. 26.—Miss Elizabeth Le Page, pioneer of Calgary, went to bed happy last night.

It had been one of the busiest days of her life—her 100th birthday.

From Prime Minister Mackenzie King came a message of congratulation; from Lieut.-Governor J. C. Bowen of Alberta, from the Calgary mayor, Andrew Davison, and the council, and from countless relatives and friends.

The day ended with a party given by members of her family and friends in Calgary. A three-tier birthday cake decorated a flower-surrounded table.

In a message addressed to "Auntie," as she is affectionately known, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said:

"I am so pleased to have the privilege of joining with your many friends in extending congratulations and good wishes upon the celebration today of your 100th birthday anniversary."

And "Auntie" went to bed happy. "I feel better than I have for some time," she told her switchboard.

Born at Rustico, a small town 18 miles from Charlottetown, P.E.I., Miss Le Page came to Calgary more than 30 years ago to reside with her nieces, Mrs. S. H. Haslam.

Apple pie is the favorite of the American nation. Blueberry pie runs a close second.

Mathematics Club Party Is Happy Affair At The Corona Hotel

Mathematical equations, roots and cubes which ordinarily rule the roost were banished from their throne to the gods of song and pleasure on Thursday evening, when for a few hours members of the University of Alberta Mathematics Club made merry at their annual banquet in the Corona hotel.

Mr. Douglas Crosby, club president, was chairman for the after-dinner program, and acted as toastmaster. Dr. Franklyn Johnston proposed a toast to the University, Dr. W. A. R. Kerr, the president, replying graciously.

Professor E. S. Keeping was the entertaining speaker of the evening, and later the Misses Helen and Katherine Rose were heard in a violin duet. Miss Cosie Fraser was the accompanist. A rollicking period of sing song was led by Dr. W. Campbell.

Unique little programs marked the places for the many guests who included Dr. and Mrs. W. A. R. Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Sheldon, Dr. and Mrs. Franklyn Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gue, Miss Marjorie Stockdale, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Sheridan, Professor and Mrs. R. J. Lacerte, Professor and Mrs. E. S. Keeping, Mr. and Mrs. John Blue, Mr. John Gillis, Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong, Mr. George Lavers, Miss Helen Rose, Miss Frank Smith, Miss C. Ross, Mr. D. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Vanderburg, Miss Marion Ross.

Community Leagues

EASTWOOD AND DISTRICT

Mr. J. K. Hill has accepted the invitation of the handicraft class of Eastwood and District Community League to give them some pointers on the art of paper-craft on Thursday afternoon in the hall. Her little talk will be demonstrated and the meeting will commence at two o'clock.

Members are planning an attractive social evening for Thursday and Mrs. Rees is in charge of details. Bingo will be played and will commence at half past eight o'clock.

The men seem to have been left out altogether for among the list of prize winners of the recent bridge and whist party held in the hall all winners, save one, were ladies. Mr. J. Pollard was the lucky gentlemen and the other winners were Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Winton, Mrs. Stanley, Mrs. Zaslow and Mrs. Sproule.

BETA PI GAMMA PARTY TO HAVE UNIQUE SETTING

Frozen swerps of Arctic snow lands showing here and there a tiny igloo hut, deep midnight, blue streamers and white, crystal skis, wide stepping snowshoe and gaily togged toboggan will form a most unique setting for a theatre party planned by members of Beta Pi Gamma of the Y.W.C.A. for Saturday evening.

Fluffy snow balls and hidden blue lights will add gaiety to the affair which will be held in the gymnasium of the Y.W.C.A. building.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Newson and Mrs. E. P. Wellwood will receive for the guests.

During the intermission Miss Pauline Seller will sing and a delightfully arranged supper will be served.

President of the group, Miss Gwendolyn Morgan is organizing the party, assisted by Miss Geraldine Hayward who is in charge of the decorations. Miss Lillian Jackson will look after serving at the supper hour and Miss Lelia Bell is directing the disposal of tickets.

MRS. OWENS IS RE-ELECTED BY L.A. TO F.A.L.C.

Re-elected as president, Mrs. Owens will head the L.A. to F.A.L.C. organization for her second term following the annual meeting recently.

Others elected to the executive include Mrs. Chettleborough, first vice-president; Mrs. Phillips, second vice - president; secretary, Mrs. Freathy; treasurer, Mrs. Oldrey; social convener, Mrs. Stocks, and sick conveners, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Wright.

Engagements

Announcement is received from Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Discher of Vulcan today of the engagement of their daughter, Harriet Dischet, to William Holman of Barrhead, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Holman and the late Mr. Holman of Winnipeg. The wedding will be solemnized in Edmonton on Wednesday, February 16.

Friends in England and in Edmonton share interest in the announcement made today of the engagement of Alice (Bobbie) Emmeline Manders youngest daughter of Mrs. Richard Manders and the late Mr. Manders of South Pines, Milford-On-Sea, Hampshire, England, to Geoffrey Morris Bullock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bullock of London, England. The wedding will take place shortly.

Club Activities

Official installation of the 1938 executive of Wesley Women's Missionary Society was conducted by Rev. E. T. Scragg at the initial meeting recently, when Mrs. H. A. Craig took over the reins of president.

Interesting review of the first two chapters of the study book "A New Church Faces a New World" was given by Mrs. W. H. Sierns during the afternoon, and the devotionals were taken by Mrs. W. T. Bowbey and Mrs. George Spelman

Symons-Forsythe Wedding Is Of Wide Social Interest Here

Solemnized quietly in the presence of intimate friends and relatives, the wedding took place on Tuesday evening of Elizabeth Minto Forsythe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Forsythe, of Regina, formerly Mrs. Ernest Hunt of Edmonton, and Mr. Donald Walker Symons of Edmonton.

Rev. T. C. McLeod of Mannville officiated at the ceremony.

POUDRE BLUE

Lovely in her wedding gown of poudre blue chiffon, with which she wore matching accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses and lilies-of-the-valley, the bride was attended by Mrs. R. C. Brown, who, acting as matron-of-honor, chose for the occasion a peach taffeta and red velvet and carried a bouquet of cream damask roses.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Forsythe was charming in a gown of American Beauty velvet, and she wore a corsage of roses.

Mr. John W. McClung attended the bridegroom.

TO LIVE HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Symons left later in the evening for an extended wedding trip to the Pacific Coast and on their return will be at home to their friends at 11190 83 avenue.

To travel, the bride was very smart in an ensemble in cafe brown.

Dr. F. Hoffman Will Address W. M. S.

Distinguished lecturer and former Professor of Philosophy in Budapest University, Dr. Frank Hoffman, B.D., LL.D., is to be the guest speaker at the twelfth annual meeting of the Edmonton Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada which will take place on Wednesday, February 16.

To be held in Knox United church, the meeting will take the form of three sessions, during the morning, afternoon and evening.

Dr. Hoffman, who is known as a travelling missionary to the Hungarian people of Saskatchewan has spoken on previous occasions in Edmonton and his return visit is being anticipated with a great deal of pleasure.

JASPER JOTTINGS

By FAY PARKER

JASPER, Jan. 26—"The Big Bad Wolf" of the Athabasca valley was slain last Saturday following a hard chase, and the big black fellow tipped the scales at 130 pounds. For a long time he has been killing game animals up and down the valley, but Saturday, shortly after bringing down an elk near Whistler Creek, he was driven to the river bank and shot. This wily old fellow has been sought for a long time but has managed to evade his hunters. In the park traps are not permissable.

Patroness For University Alumni Ball

MRS. W. A. R. KERR,

wife of Dr. W. A. R. Kerr, President of the University of Alberta, and gracious chatelaine of residence No. 1 of the University campus, who, shown here in a charming new study, is loaning her patronage to the colorful University Alumni Association ball planned for Wednesday evening, February 16, in the Macdonald hotel. Serving to recall a gay function of former years, the affair is anticipated as one of the most attractive parties for early spring, and should prove a popular rendezvous for friends of under-graduate days. Already many parties of former members and their friends have been made up to attend it.

THE moderns have a club for it! With national recognition accorded to Sioux City's "Wives of Spanking Husbands Club"—parent organization of 39 such clubs throughout the United States—its members reached out for another slice of territory today when Iowa housewives who consider it a mark of esteem for their husband to wield a disciplinary hairbrush once in a while, announced plans today for a junior auxiliary—daughters of spanking parents. A letter received at Sioux Falls from Sioux City and signed "Rita Rae, General Delivery," told of plans for the new organization for which she claimed an initial membership of 17.

"We think all parents should spank their daughters when they don't behave," Rita wrote. "Some girls won't admit it, but they really know it is better to get spanked than get scolded and nagged. Spanking creates a better understanding between parents and daughters."

Mrs. Rae is president of the Wives of Spanking Husbands, organized when a Sioux City broad-minded slogan "spare the hairbrush and spoil the wife."

NATURE'S WISDOM

My child, behold the elephant;
Observe his amplitude.
You will perceive that he must weigh
Ten tons, completely nude.

Observe, I beg, how slow he walks,
How stately is his pace;
See with what dignity he stalks
To get from place to place.

And now observe the agile flea,
Endowed with muscle strength
That sends it hurtling every jump
One hundred times its length.

My child, how wise are Nature's laws!
How horrid it would be
If elephants went hurtling 'round
Promiscuous like the flea.

Wide Range Of Subjects Used In Children's Art On Display In Museum

Engines and snowmen, animals, circuses and prima donnas, a range of themes as wide as life itself are the playground in which children across Canada, whose artistic work is at present on exhibition in the Edmonton Museum of Arts Gallery in the Civic block, have chosen to ramble while giving expression to the beginnings of the artist in them.

Forming the largest part of the exhibition now on display at the museum, the paintings by the children are cleverly done, with an eye for color and shown a great deal of ability for the future.

Also hung in the gallery is a group of photographs by Alberta photographers, on a wide range of subjects, while in addition the permanent exhibition of the Edmonton Art Club has been changed.

POTENTIAL ARTISTS

From the children's classes of the art galleries of Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver representative work is shown, with exhibitors in some cases being as young as four years of age, ranging through to 15.

Splashes of color, a dab of the brush—and there has been brought to the canvas a scene of everyday life, as a child would see it. A car rolling down the street, a heavy battleship, a circus come to town, a field of sheep—fenced in, a winter scene, snowmen, or the busy section of a down town street . . . such is the amazing variety of subjects these talented young children have depicted, and in each case it is the colorful things which attract the eye of the child that he has painted.

Colors are vivid and bright, and unsubdued, the paintings in most cases showing great action and the figures of men, women and children, rather than scenes.

WATER COLORS

New permanent exhibition of the Edmonton Art Club, now on display, is a series of delightful water colors . . . delicate shades blended into scenes of outdoor life, a rolling prairie, a ship at sea, a vine covered cottage.

Arranged by Mr. Hubert Norbury a collection of photographs by Alberta Photographers is a particularly fine feature of the exhibit, bringing out to the minutest detail lights and shadows. Pictures taken at night or in the bright sunshine, on mountain slopes, or, in some cases, beauty spots in and around Edmonton, all reveal the same clever technique of catching the vitality of the scene.

Portraiture on display is of especially high calibre with the expression vividly caught, from the seriousness of an old Indian chief's wrinkled face to the laughing sparkle in a young lad's eyes.

Memory Of "Immortal Bard" Is Honored In Word And Song At Burns' Concert

Tribute to the memory of the greatest of all Scottish bards, Robert Burns was paid in word, song and Highland dance at the Scottish Masonic Temple on Tuesday evening when members of the Imperial Grans' Association presented a concert in which a number of Edmonton artists appeared with members of the Orpheus Male Chorus in one of the finest of "Burns Night" celebrations.

Mr. William Aberhart, premier of the province and his daughter, Mrs. C. S. MacPhail of Vancouver, were present as honored guests.

BURNS' SECRET

"It is in the interpretation of the Scottish language in song and verse that we see Robert Burns in his true light," said Mr. Roger R. MacPherson, who presided during the meeting. "It is his broad humanity and racy sense of humor that make his works, even today, so widely popular and read."

Appearing under the direction of Mr. David W. Vaughan, the chorus was accompanied throughout by Mrs. Thomas R. Mansell, A.T.C.M.

Choruses sung by the choir during the evening include the following: "Auchtermuchty," "Glorious Forever"; Buck's "In Absence"; Coleridge Taylor's "Viking Song"; Edmond's "The Anchor's Song"; Whittaker's "Bobby Shaftoe"; Adam's "Comrades in Arms"; Wagner's "Pilgrim's Chorus"; Squire's "Three Jer Jock"; Parks' "Boys of the Old Brigade"; Price's "Crossing the Plain"; Benyon's "Come Cheilie Night; and Candish's "Song of the Jolly Rogue".

SCOTTISH DANCES

Interspersing the various choral numbers were a number of dances by pupils of the Shirley School of Modern Dancing, and taking part were Lillian Foster, Margaret MacDonald and Ina Barclay. Piper Donald J. MacKinnon accompanied the dances, which included sword dances and other highland traditional dances.

Mr. William Hinshalwood gave several of the better known of Burns' poems, the result loved "To a Mountain Daisy" and "To a Mouse".

Singing Scottish songs were sung by David C. Jones and also during the evening Miss Hazel Bunkshall sang to the great delight of the audience a number of old Scotch folk songs, some by the poet himself.

Mr. R. Radcliff sang several comical selections.

Bingo in truly Scottish manner. "Auld Lang Syne" was sung and as the notes died away the singing of God Save the King brought the concert to a termination.

Individual Lipsticks To Go With Costumes

By ALICIA HART

The wee chic woman dresses lipstick, compact and other pocket gadgets paraphernalia with an eye toward her mode of life and the clothes in her wardrobe. Of course, they must suit her taste and be made by a manufacturer whose products she likes. But she doesn't carry just any old lipstick in an evening bag, while a handsome, rhinestone-studded number goes to the golf course with her.

One of the smartest lipsticks for sports comes in a solid walnut case with a shiny copper base. And one of the most charming evening sets includes two half-size lipsticks in half-size cases—one of solid ebony, the other of solid ivory—and both studded with a circlet of tiny rhinestones at the base. The black one is for formal afternoon and to carry when you wear dinner clothes and he wears a black tie. The ivory goes with your most formal gown.

Also for afternoon is a full-size lipstick in a gold and ivory case, shaped like a fluted Greek column. And for day and informal evening for one who likes bright touches with black costumes, a patriotic number with red base, white centre and blue top.

With the muted pastel or soft prim you're wearing now under your fur coat, you might consider a fat lipstick with case in alternating stripes of pastel enamel and gold. There are compacts to match these.

For the south or to give someone who likes the south but cannot get there this year, there are box enamel compacts and matching cigarette cases with pictures of palm trees, broad expanses of beach and rolling waves in colored enamel across the top. And pretty tortoiseshell catalin ones with shiny gold hinges. These are transparent so you always can tell how much powder you have or how many cigarettes are left.

Lucille Manners is a real prima donna of the air whose vibrant voice gives no hint of her Dresden china loveliness. A petite blonde and very fair, Miss Manners has blue eyes glamorized by long, curling lashes. Her suavely molded features and stunning figure create an air of sculptured fragility. Her small hands have the long, tapering fingers of an artist.

Your Children

By CLIVE SOMERSET BARTON

A man had two sons. He was telling us about them the other night and explaining some of his methods of dealing with them when they were small boys. It began with a row of giving air opinions about discipline.

The boys determined, one day, he said, to go out in bad weather. He had had a cold. The man had, and today was particularly damp and dangerous. But in spite of orders, he got his wraps and put them on. It was to be a real all-day row.

O. R. Barton

His father followed him to the door and tabled and talked. But his hand on the doorknob. Tom- my was going just the same. Then his daddy said, "Son, in your heart you know this is wrong, don't you? You don't want to act that way. Now talk yourself if you think you have good sense." There was more of it. Finally the boy said, "I'm not goin'," flung off his coat and stayed at home.

QUELLING A REBELLION

The other boy, Major, by nickname, had been acting up and refusing to obey his mother. He was a sweet little fellow, his father explained but sometimes he loved a battle. One day he was very, very bad. At supper he ate like health filled up the hole he had dug in the yard, and didn't intend to. With that he ran outside, back to the garage, and hid, but his father followed with a little stick he had picked up. Major talk, and father said, "Is your heart you know you are wrong, don't you, Maj? Forgive us and think of yourself. Are you very proud of your clothes?"

Maj thought a time and then he said suddenly "I guess I'm just a fool." And he walked over to the pile of mud and began shoveling it back with his hands.

Now we may say that the sight of the rod did the work. But this is such a gentle old man this son I've grown to today) that I don't suppose the small weapon had much to do with it. Maj like his brother had succumbed to moral suasion. Conscience had been troubling them and when the burden of decision was laid on their own door, they took it to heart.

RESPECT FOR AUTHORITY

But I believe there is more here than meets the eye. Mr. Barton asked both boys to examine their own hearts, but although he is gentle, and probably was twenty years ago also, there is a certain positiveness about him. He would not have allowed Tommy to go out in sleet and wind to die of pneumonia. He would not have allowed Major to get away from his responsibility. Both knew and the smell of real authority and respect- ed it. It was not conscience alone- gether.

Sometimes the appeal to conscience works and sometimes not. It all depends. But one thing I do know, that many times the child ought to be forced to do what he doesn't want to, rather than to have his own deciding always. We are all made that way. We work better under some pressure.

And we conform more happily when the decision is not left perpetually to us. In short, we like to be told. Not always, but a fair portion of the time. Then we avoid conflicts and the worst and least of decision. Suppose we say that an even mixture is the best practice.

What To Do

When asking a hostess' permission to leave the dinner table, which is the correct form to use, "Excuse me, please," or "May I be excused?" I have heard both expressions used and would appreciate your telling me which one is right?

MISS B. F.

Answer—"May I be excused?" or "Will you excuse me please?" is the correct form. When a person asks another to grant a favor, in this instance permission to leave the dinner table presumably before the hostess gives the signal, then we request or beg permission, which is implied when we say "may" or "will". But when "Excuse me, please", is the form used, it is most discourteous and in effect commands the hostess to excuse us. I am glad you asked the question, because the more many persons have no idea of the discourtesy involved in using the imperative form.

DOROTHY DIX Says:

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have three insufferable chumbins and am no way out of them. My home life has always been unpleasant, with nothing but bitterness and ill-feeling existing in it. My mother naturally has a civil word for me. I have been there too long now, being in my early thirties, and I am just another woman in the house, whose presence she resents. My work is slowly killing me. I make fairly good money, but the incessant hurry and noise is wrecking my nerves and I know I will not last long at it. The best man in the world loves me, but he is absorbed up in a situation which means happiness and we do not know when it will, if ever, be possible for us to get married. Any way, my life has been led in such a cramped, unnatural manner that I am afraid I will never be able to adjust myself to life any more. Is there anything I can do?

DESPAIR.

Answer:

The only reason you are helpless and miserable is because you look for your happiness from other persons instead of in the fate, and so the one thing that it is positively indicative that it would seem that even a blind person could see it.

That is: To leave your mother. The friction between her and yourself, and the morbid state of mind that it has brought about, is at the bottom of all your troubles. Your relationship is the one in which you stand to each other that they must not part that they are on quarrelling and hating each other and spelling each other's lives when they would be happy if they only went their own ways.

You are making a good salary, so are financially independent, and I urge you, for your mother's sake as well as your own, to grab your hat and leave immediately. Preferably, go to live in some nice boarding house, because what you need is cheerful companionship, strangers who will take your mind off your troubles and give you something new to think about. It will be far better for you to live in a crowd than by yourself until your mind gets back to normal.

After you get away from your mother you will find that the morbid state you have got into about your work will also pass. You will see it then as something interesting to do, something that is an untold blessing because it gives you the money to live a free life, and you will realize that it has no more objectionable features than every employment has by which we earn our daily bread. All of us have our times of getting bored with our jobs and thinking we can't go on another day, but we try we can overcome this mood and renew our interest and enthusiasm in them.

And urge your fiance to summon up his will power, too, and cut the Gordian knot that binds him. So many things we think we have to endure that we don't really have to stand at all. So many circumstances seem insurmountable because we never honestly try to overcome them. Where there is a will there is a way out of trouble.

DOROTHY DIX.

According To Culbertson

By ELY CULBERTSON

In my none too humble opinion, it is better to have bad intentions than to have no intentions at all!

As applied to bridge, this simply means: Formulate and follow a plan of play, offensive or defensive. Even though the plan you select may not be the best available, it almost surely will be better than a floundering around process can be. Before you cash a trick, decide what you intend to do next. Why will you do if there is a favorable drop of cards; what to do if it is the other way around. Observe the rumbling of a distant drum."

probably is the only one of his philosophical gems that does not apply to bridge. In this game "the rumbling of a distant drum" should be given serious attention!

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	1 heart	Double	1 spade
2 diamonds	2 spades	3 hearts	3 spades
Pass	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass

West opened with the spade king. Declarer won and laid down the heart king. Had he no reason to lay off, hence won with his ace and, with no particular idea in mind (surely he would not hope to shorten the declarer), returned his spade jack. West could have saved the ship by overtaking and shifting to a club, but how was he to know that the declarer's heart suit was so solid that he could pick up every one of Easts trumps? East had not only doubled hearts, he had bid them originally. It appeared to be East's intention to force declarer, so who was he (West) to overrule this suggested defence?

Declarer, of course, followed to the second spade, but when the third round was played he ruffed with the six and drew every one of East's trumps, then led a diamond to the ace. The queen dropping, the rest of the tricks belonged to declarer, his contract being fulfilled with an overtrick.

While, as I have said, West could have struck a telling blow for his own side by overtaking the spade and shifting to a club, the real error was made by East. On winning with the heart ace he should have seized the opportunity to look declarer squarely in the dummy. This, of course, was absurdly simple. All East had to do was play his singleton diamond queen and declarer would have been completely out of luck. He could not have re-entered his own hand quickly enough to draw East's trumps and, thus, instead of the defenders taking a measly few tricks, they could have taken, in all, one spade, one heart, a diamond ruff and two clubs, a saving of three tricks, or about 1,400 points.

Manly Art Of Cooking Shown In This Recipe

By MRS. GAYNOR HADDOX

There's a young man of Manhattan who knows his sauterne. He gave a party, and the menu was a feast indeed. They are giving parties, and want to be thought of as the chef, so the host decided to do a stew apple jelly. So the young man of Manhattan, who proves to remain anonymous, got out his pot, set out for his friends. Because you see, would be his friend if you ate of his stew. Here is the whole story of that recent party. There were five guests and they were there to dinner at Hotel Mang and Stephen Baden, with Wheeler Calderwood and the Little Gentry in charge.

CREAMED MUSHROOMS
(Serves 6)

Three pounds fresh mushrooms, 4 tablespoons butter, salt, cayenne, 2 cups heavy cream.

For six good friends, use 3 three-pound baskets of large, fresh mushrooms. Peel them and cut off only the ends of the stems. Then slice the mushrooms down from cap through stems, making three or four slices from each mushroom, depending on the size of the mushroom. Toss the cut-off ends and the peelings with a pat for flavor.

In a large iron pan, heat 4 tablespoons butter, then turn in the mushrooms and sauté gently in the hot butter. After three minutes, cover and cook gently another five minutes. Season with green pepper, using a little salt and though it may sound heretical, also a pinch of cayenne pepper. Now slowly add two cups very heavy cream and bring to bubble. Let the heavy cream bubble gently until it begins to thicken—only a few minutes. Turn the mushrooms out on a hot platter where a lot of little specs of piping hot toast are waiting. Now that's all there is to this dish—except the eating.

To begin the supper, serve clear tomato bouillion. Strip dark, wilted leaves from your salad greens and simmer in a little water. Strain and to the strained liquid add a little tomato juice, a little fresh or canned chicken bouillion, and a little of the stock made from the peelings and stems of the mushrooms. Strain, get very hot, and serve with a Swedish rye biscuit.

The sizzling hot mushrooms, in their robes of pure white cream and escorted by the little gallants of hot toast, come next. With them serve thin sliced cooked ham and the best and clearest crabapple jelly you can find in this bountiful world. There must be freshly toasted halves of cornmeal muffins, buttered and irresistibly browned. Yes, the common garden variety of cornmeal muffins. But when they find themselves in the company of such entrees, as ham, crabapple jelly and such grand company they assume a golden flavor.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Compote of prunes and apricots, dry rice cereal, oatmeal muffins, bacon, orange marmalade, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Creamed mushrooms on toast, toasted cornmeal muffins, fresh pears, milk.

DINNER: Clear vegetable bouillon, green peppers stuffed with meat, tomato sauce, steamed rice, buttered carrots, pineapple-coconut cake, coffee, milk.

Debunker

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

An old belief among rural emotions that cucumbers are very hard to digest, and that by soaking them in salt water for a few hours, they become more digestible. The idea is all nonsense, and is based on the old assumption that there was something poisonous about the cucumber, and this must be pushed out. Another foolish idea is that the rind or skin of the cucumber is poisonous. It is one of the best parts of the cucumber.

Splendid Cough Remedy Easily Mixed at Home

It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking.

To get quick relief from a distressing cough, stir your own remedy at home. Once tried, you'll say it's your favorite cough medicine, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a compound containing Norway Pine in concentrated form, well known for its prompt action on throat membranes.

Put the Pinex into a 16 ounce bottle, and add your syrup. Then fill bottle with 16 ounces of very clarified molasses, or strained honey. Mix well and you have a full pint of cough remedy, enough to last a family for your money. It tastes fine and never spoils.

And for quick, blessed relief, it is splendid. You can feel it take hold in the sly manner in a way that seems almost to penetrate the pleura, where the inflammation causing the cough, and soothe and heal the irritated membranes. This it makes breathing easy, and the cough quickly disappears.

Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Probe of Radio Industry To Be Made

TARIFF BOARD TO PROBE ALL TRADE PHASES

Study Will Take Months, Ordered By Finance Minister Dunning

OTTAWA, Jan. 26—The tariff board was instructed Tuesday by Finance Minister Dunning to make a complete investigation of the radio industry in Canada.

The investigation, which will take months, will embrace production, distribution and sale of receiving sets, radio tubes and parts of sets and tubes. In addition, the tariff board will study the bearing of the patent law upon the manufacture, use and importation of radio tubes and sets, particularly the effect upon the importation, cost and use of radios in Canada of the alleged pooled control of patent rights.

PATENT RIGHTS

Pooling of patent rights has been the subject of house debates several times in the past. It has been charged Canadians were prevented from importing radios which were not made here because Canadian manufacturers held the patents and threatened to take action for patent infringement.

It was claimed the patent rights were being operated as a tariff. It also has been charged in the past that patents were bought up and never used for manufacturing purposes in Canada, Canadians being deprived of their benefits.

HELD CONFERENCES

During the past year or two, Chairman G. H. Sedgewick of the tariff board has held several "informal conferences" with Canadian radio manufacturers but there has been no formal investigation of the industry by the board. The finance minister's instructions to the board were to proceed formally and further.

In 1931, Fred McGregor, commissioner under the Combines Investigation Act, investigated charges of combine against radio tube manufacturers. His report was never made public but when it was sent to the Ontario attorney-general, no action was taken in the courts. The price of tubes dropped appreciably soon after the investigation.

RURAL MEMBERS ARGUE WINNIPEG TO BEAR RELIEF

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26—Two rural members led an attack Tuesday in committee of the whole Manitoba legislature against a resolution the city be relieved of relief charges.

J. W. Breakey (Lib. Glenwood) opposed the resolution of James Litterick (Communist, Winnipeg) and urged appointment of a government administrator for Winnipeg. The administrator, Mr. Breakey said, should look after the city's business in event the city council does not give satisfactory assurance it can take care of Winnipeg's share of relief costs.

A second proposal by L. St. G. Stubs, (Ind. Winnipeg) was that a commission be named to determine the city's ability to pay relief costs.

The legislators were told the city's relief funds were virtually exhausted and that the city had only until Feb. 1 to secure further money.

Liquor Stores Are Believed To Be Taxable

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—Hon. N. W. Rowell, chairman of the Royal Commission on Dominion-Provincial Relations, said Tuesday there did not seem to be "any reason" why government liquor stores should not be subject to municipal taxation.

"It may be that the same applies to public utilities," Mr. Rowell added.

Mayor Stanley Lewis of Ottawa said Ontario had recently indicated to the city of Toronto it could collect local taxes on liquor stores.

Dairy Industry Said Growing

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26—The Manitoba dairying industry now outranks its parent industry of livestock in production value, Hon Douglas Campbell, provincial agriculture minister, told members of the Manitoba Dairy Cattle Breeders' Association Tuesday.

He praised the showing made by Manitoba butter men every year in national and international competitions.

More than 600 entries were considered by judges at the butter show today. John Dalgarno of Old Kildonan, north of Winnipeg, scored the highest per cent of 96.5 in the milk competition.

Arabs Executed To Curb Terror

JERUSALEM, Jan. 26—The hangman's black flag was hoisted three times Tuesday over Acre prison as a token of the Palestine government's determination to stamp out terrorism. The first triple execution in the history of the British administration claimed the lives of three Arabs: Mohammed Suleiman Tahoun and Mohammed Rahim Orbeisha, both convicted of the murder of a Jewish chauffeur, and Nunjet Hamdan, convicted of firing on British troops.

Dies From Stroke

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Jan. 26—Peter C. McGregor, 91, treasurer of Sydenham township for the last 25 years, died at his home Tuesday after suffering a stroke last Friday. Born in Sydenham township, he came here in 1912.

$1000 For Bruno Glimpse

White-bearded, 89-year-old Amandus Hochmuth is pictured above as he received his $1,000 share of the $25,000 Lindbergh kidnapping case reward from Gov. Harold Hoffman of New Jersey, in one of the final acts of the world-stirring tragedy. Aiding greatly in the conviction of Bruno Richard Hauptmann as the kidnapper, the aged Hopewell farmer identified the German carpenter as the occupant of a "dirty, green sedan containing a ladder," near the Lindbergh home.

Cops Catch Horse-God: Fierce Battle Follows

RECIFFE, Brazil, Jan. 26.—Pernambuco state officials last night disclosed 140 members of a rebellious religious sect, worshippers of the horse-god Trancelim, were killed in a backwoods battle with Brazilian police.

Five policemen were killed and 10 wounded. The fight occurred in a remote section of Bahia state.

Captain Optato Queiroz, commander of a military police detachment operating against the sect headed by Jose Lourenco, prophet of the now-dead horse-god, reported:

"After a 42-hour combat we have dominated the stronghold of the fanatics in Casanova township, killing 140 of them in addition to those wounded.

"Lourenco was among those who escaped in the hand-to-hand fighting. Our military detachment consisted of 96 men, five of whom were killed and 10 wounded.

A punitive expedition was sent against the strange cult last autumn when political leaders began to fear the growing power of Lourenco and his equine god.

The horse, to the horror of cult members, was captured by police in a raid on a meeting last September. In custody Trancelin refused fodder, wasted away and died.

Lourenco escaped and continued his cult without the horse.

Manitoba's Runic Stone Has Its Touch of Glamor

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26.—Manitoba's "runic" stone — which turned out to be not so runic—never did get into a museum; but its destiny is a bit more distinguished than that of the average boulder anyway.

Visitors to Photographer E. B. Gibson's home just outside Winnipeg add the wear and tear of footwork to the odd markings which five years ago conjured up pictures of husky Norsemen penetrating Manitoba by way of Hudson bay. Gibson used the big rock—five feet by three—for a doorstep.

The stone was originally discovered in 1925 by Steve Sygnatavich, Sandy Hook farmer, who kept quiet about it for eight years because he thought it was a marker for buried treasure.

It came to light again in 1933 when members of the Natural History Society of Manitoba learned about it and were shown copies of the "runic character" carved into its surface. Before full investigation could be made it disappeared.

Two weeks later anonymous telephone calls to the Manitoban, University of Manitoba publication, and to the Winnipeg daily papers, resulted in its recovery from a deep snowdrift in Winnipeg's north end.

The stone had one more crack at the front page. That was when the late Prof. R. S. Kirk of the university's geological department took a look at it. He pronounced the "carvings" just "weathering"—the erosions of time, frost, the wind and the rain.

Australia Celebrates Landing of Colonists

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 26.—Guns of Australian, British and foreign warships last night thundered salutes in a prelude to the opening today of celebrations commemorating Australia's 150th birthday.

The warships of France, the United States, Italy and the Netherlands steamed between the great sandstone Sydney heads to join units flying the Union Jack. Eighteen Royal Air Force planes escorted them.

Australia will commemorate her 150 years as a white settlement with celebrations extending over three months.

Gay crowds swirled in the streets last night. Public buildings were floodlit and the Sydney Harbor bridge was illuminated.

A water and shore pageant today will depict the landing on Jan. 26, 1788, of Captain Arthur Phillip with soldiers and 800 convict settlers. The American revolution had prevented the deportation of the convicts across the Atlantic and they were sent instead to colonize the land "down under".

Although Captain James Cook landed in April, 1770, at Botany Bay, it was not until Captain Phillip arrived that a white settlement was established.

Australia's metropolis and her largest port grew from that early penal settlement. The practice of sending convicts from England was abandoned in 1840.

Heavy Term Is Given For Spying

BESANCON, France, Jan. 26—A military court Tuesday sentenced Rudolf Richter to 15 years' imprisonment on a charge of espionage. The 55-year-old Swiss, it was alleged, was a member of the German secret service and sought plans of the Maginot line, France's defence system along the German border.

R.A.F. Fatality

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Flying Officer David L. Morris was killed and three other occupants of a Royal Air Force plane were injured when it crashed Monday night near the village of Ibworth, Hampshire.

Soap In Food Is Said Plot

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26.—Illness of 63 inmates of Lincoln Heights jail was described Tuesday by police as a "plot to embarrass the police department." Detectives said they learned soap had been slipped into hash prepared for the prisoners' breakfast. Twelve are in serious condition.

Busy Aurora

TORONTO, Jan. 26.—Aurora Borealis rays—electrical disturbances in the ether—disrupted wire services throughout northern Ontario, north-west from Winnipeg on the prairies and in the Toronto-Montreal-Ottawa area today.

AURORA BLAZE IS DISRUPTION OF TELEGRAPH

Electrical Communications Are Hit In Many Parts Of World

By the Canadian Press

Aurora borealis was hard at work last night, presenting a flaming spectacle in the northern sky and disrupting electrical communication in Canada, the United States and many other parts of the world.

Commercial telegraphic wire chiefs in Canada described the rays as comparable to those of last Monday, which were the heaviest in 10 years. Press wire-services were sorely tried in getting news reports through to newspapers.

At times the static was so intense that when operators sent such a phrase as "diplomatic sources" the words arrived as "awgxm hvkpvxgvs."

Scientists at Hayden planetarium in New York explained the northern lights are formed of gases of the upper air touched off by the electricity of magnetic storms high above the earth. These magnetic storms penetrate the earth, thus interfering with telegraphic lines "grounded" in the earth.

On a telegraph wire, one phase of the electrical current passes over the wire while another passes back through the earth, making a circuit. When magnetic storms are operating, the earth circuit is disjointed.

At such times technicians "ground" the wire with another parallel wire. Insulated as it is from contact with the earth, this "metallic ground" is not affected by the static. However, the arrangement takes twice as many miles of wire as is ordinarily needed.

Sun Spots Are Given Blame

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26—Interruptions in radio, telegraph and telephone transmission Tuesday were attributed by astronomers directly to sun spot activity.

An active spot, which is just disappearing around the limb (edge) of the sun, caused similar disturbances in the earth's magnetic field last Monday and Friday, bringing radio fade-outs those two days.

The aurora borealis, or northern lights, was seen early Saturday morning as far south as San Diego.

Blood-Red Beam Alarms Europe

GRENOBLE, France, Jan. 26—A huge blood-red beam of light which scientists said was an aurora borealis of exceptional amplitude tonight tied up telephone systems in parts of France and spread anxiety in numerous Swiss Alpine villages.

Emblazoned in the northern sky the light brought thousands of telephone calls to Swiss and French authorities asking whether it was fire, war or the end of the world.

Scientists at the University of Grenoble said a similar aurora borealis had not been seen in Western Europe since 1709.

Neither End Of World Nor Start Of New War

LONDON, Jan. 26.—It was not the end of the world. It wasn't a new war. It was not a fire.

It was only the Aurora Borealis—on the blink again—that kept firemen dashing about much of Europe into the early morning hours today.

The firemen couldn't do anything about the scientific phenomenon so they went home to bed and left it to the scientists to explain all about it.

Many villagers in more remote sections of Europe knelt in prayer as the northern lights spread across the sky last night.

Some in Switzerland thought a new war had begun. Telephone systems were tied up in some parts of France and a few villagers shouted, "C'est la Guerre!" Some thought the world was coming to an end.

In Great Britain, the Windsor fire department was called out in the belief Windsor Castle was in flames. Firemen dashed on numerous other false calls.

Many in the Netherlands, where the House of Orange is hoping for a male heir to be born to Crown Princess Juliana, regarded the lights as a happy omen. But in Scotland they talked gloomily of impending disaster, recalling similar but not equal flashes on the night before King Edward VII died.

No Peace Sighted By Chinese Envoy Returning Home

SHANGHAI, Jan. 26.—Tsu Shiv-Ying, China's ambassador to Japan, returned to his homeland today with the declaration "I bring no peace terms."

On board the liner Empress of Asia he greeted his fellow countrymen, saying: "I am convinced that the invasion by foreign forces can only make China more determined to maintain its integrity—more united to fight for the right."

Since the Shanghai area is under Japanese domination, he remained on board the ship. He will continue to Hong Kong and fly from there to Hankow, temporary capital.

Medical Adviser

TORONTO, Jan. 26—Sir Thomas Stanton, K.C.M.G., chief medical adviser to the secretary of state for the colonies, is dead in London, his brother, George H. Stanton, Toronto, was advised Tuesday. He was born in Kendal, Ont., 15 miles northwest of Port Hope, in 1875, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stanton.

Infra-Red Is Found Useful To Spot Fire

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—The Canadian Society of Forest Engineers, at the concluding session of the annual convention here, was told Tuesday infra-red film could be used by forest rangers in photographing smoke or haze-hidden areas to ascertain location of fires.

H. Methol of Quebec Forest Service and J. G. Wright of the Dominion Forest Service told of possibilities of infra-red film as applied to forest fire prevention.

While not in use in Canada for that purpose, ability of infra-red rays to pierce fog and smoke would give rangers a clear picture of the area under their control, they said.

SURPRISE CHECK ON JAIL MEALS WILL BE MADE

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26—Surprise inspections of food and meals at the Manitoba provincial Headingley jail were recommended in the report of a committee who investigated the sit-down strike, Jan. 17, when 91 prisoners refused to leave the dining hall. The men were driven out with tear gas bombs.

The committee, Mr. Justice S. E. Richards of the court of appeal, Robert Jacob, K.C., and A. Macnarmara, chairman of the prison advisory board, made the report tabled today in the Manitoba legislture by Hon. W. J. Major.

The report also suggested arrangements be made for a superior court judge to visit Headingley jail at least once every three months to hear prisoners' complaints. It was recommended similar visits be made at Portage La Prairie, Brandon and Dauphin provincial jails.

Mr. Major told the legislature both recommendations likely would be followed.

3 BELIEVED CREMATED IN FARM BLAZE

Neighbors See House Destroyed—Family Thought At Home

GRETNA, Man., Jan. 26—Leslie Trembeth, 44, his wife and their four-year-old son, Tom, were believed to have died Tuesday in flames which destroyed their farm home near this town on the international boundary 50 miles southwest of Winnipeg.

J. Bosper, a neighboring farmer, and three companions saw the house in flames about eight a.m. and rushed to the rescue but their efforts proved futile because the fire had gained too much headway. Despite the intense heat they burst in the locked front door but were unable to enter because of the flames.

No trace of the bodies was found in the smouldering ruins but it was believed all three members of the family were home at the time. The farm is situated a mile south of Gretna within North Dakota and a coroner from Cavalier, N.D., was summoned. He will issue a report today.

Mrs. Trembeth, aged 40, was formerly Lillian Smith of Gretna. Her husband was prominent in the district and a member of the Gretna curling club.

AMERICAN LABOR REFUSES TO JOIN ANTI-JAPAN PACT

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 26.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor declined Tuesday to join European trade unionists in an economic alliance against Japan.

Representatives of Great Britain, France, Switzerland, Sweden, Russia and the Netherlands projected the alliance at Brussels Jan. 15, contemplating governmental embargoes against Japanese goods with a scheme for mutual economic compensation for any losses entailed by the movement.

The conference sought an explicit guarantee of mutual aid from the United States but the A.F.L. council replied to Sir Walter Citrine, president of the International Federation of Trade Unions, it was "not prepared at present to go as far as suggested."

The council gave assurances, however, that the anti-Japanese boycott voted at the last A.F.L. convention "will be aggressively applied by labor and its friends throughout the United States" and said "definite results" already had followed.

Record Year For Steamships of West Indies

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 26.—The Canadian National (West Indies) Steamships has just closed the best year since it commenced operations and the net earnings will show an improvement over 1936, stated R. C. Vaughan, vice president in charge of the West Indies services of the company, in a review of steamship traffic issued here today. "This improvement was in spite of the fact that operating expenses are rapidly increasing particularly on account of increased bunker fuel prices, advanced stevedoring charges, etc.

"Passenger bookings for the coming winter are ahead of last year, and at certain seasons of the year it is sometimes difficult to find accommodation for the business offering," stated Mr. Vaughan. "We have eleven boats in the various West Indies services, including the popular 'lady' liners."

Freight business in 1937 also showed some improvement over the previous year. "We feel that Jamaica and other West Indian islands, should buy to a larger extent than they do now from Canada, especially in view of the very excellent and regular steamship service provided for them by the vessels of the Canadian National Steamships service under the trade agreement between the various West Indian islands and Canada."

Hadassah Is Growing Says Mrs. Garfinke

OTTAWA, Jan. 26—Growth of Canadian Hadassah from 150 chapters to 172 chapters since 1935 was shown here Tuesday in the secretarial report of Mrs. H. M. Garfinke, Montreal, to the ninth convention of that organization. A total registration of 8,000 members, located in 80 centres throughout the Dominion was reported to the 183 delegates.

Report of junior Hadassah in Canada, submitted by Mrs. B. M. Alexander, Montreal, national chairman, showed that branch had 62 chapters with a total membership of 919 compared with 45 chapters and 612 members in 1935, Mrs. Alexander stated.

Scotsmen Celebrate Burns' Memory At Banquet

Bard's Poems Good For Soul, Speaker Declares in Toast

D. B. MacRae of Regina is Speaker as Edmonton Burns Club Forms Link in Round-the-World Fetes

Featured by an address to "The Immortal Memory" by D. B. MacRae, managing editor of the Regina Leader-Post, the Edmonton Burns Club formed a link in the chain of round-the-world commemorative celebrations in honor of the birthday of Robert Burns, in holding its annual gathering at the Macdonald hotel on Tuesday evening.

Attended by the largest assemblage in the history of the Burns Club, this commemorative event stamped it in the words of MacRae, as "foremost among the Burns clubs of the Dominion."

And not only were there members of the club itself present, but there came former members now resident in other provinces as well as greetings from members, former members and sister organizations.

NEW TRIUMPHS

Never has Scotland's Immortal Bard been more spontaneously honored than on this occasion. So great was the outpouring of enthusiasm that it would appear as though the Immortal Songster of Scotland had just reached popularity and won his first triumphs. But, in truth, he did win new triumphs, because his poetry, treasured through the years, has found new beauty and greater appreciation as each anniversary of the ploughman poet's birthday comes round.

His Honor Lt.-Gov. J. C. Bowen, honorary patron of the Burns Club, was a guest of honor, as was His Worship Mayor J. W. Fry.

James Walker, president of the club, was the chairman and toastmaster.

With speech and song the Burns devotees paid tribute to their beloved bard.

Second only in importance to the bard, was the haggis, which was piped into the banquet hall by two pipers and carried by Peter Chalmers. The address to the haggis was given in masterly fashion by Alex McDonald.

"Poetry is good for the soul, especially the poetry of Robert Burns" said Mr. MacRae. "An evening devoted to the work of a poet was a time to shut out the material world, the brick and mortar of physical surroundings, and to concentrate on the things of the spirit."

DARTS OF HUMOR

In keeping with this mood, Mr. MacRae said that "although I am speaking to an Alberta audience he was willing even to overlook the fact that Burns once wrote a poem on the back of a bank note."

Referring to his audience, Mr. MacRae said it was a delight to any speaker to find an intelligent audience. His audience was being largely Scottish, he took it for granted that he had a body of intelligent listeners. Another plea-

EDMONTON HAS FORECAST OF MILD WEATHER

Back into the part of the thermometer usually reserved for springtime, went Edmonton's temperature on Tuesday, the highest reading for the day being a welcome 34 above, registered all the way from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. Obviously unmoved by the noble efforts to melt all the snow in the city, the mercury fell to the freezing point at 11 p.m., and then egged still further to the 34 above mark, registered at 8 a.m., for the lowest reading up to 9 a.m. Wednesday. By 9 a.m. the red line had gone up one degree, and the forecast at that time was "comparatively mild."

During the early morning hours of Wednesday, snow measuring 31 inches was left sprinkled on the boulevards.

Although many degrees lower than the local readings, far north temperatures Wednesday morning were nothing out of the ordinary for that region, the coldest of the reporting points being Dawson, with 23 below, while Aklavik was doing nicely with 22 below, and Fort Nelson was not quite so chilly at 24 below.

In the near north, only three towns out of 21 reporting were under the zero mark, McMurray being lowest with 10 below, while the other two sub-zero points were Fort Vermilion, with 5 below, and House River, with 4 below. Away in the tropical section were Hoover Lodge, sweltering at 32 above, Slave Lake reported some drifted snow during the night.

MRS. M'KILLOP OF LETHBRIDGE DIES IN CITY

For many years a prominent and devoted worker in the United Church and one of the first white women to live in the Lethbridge district, Mrs. Charles McKillop died here on Wednesday. She was 76 years old.

Mrs. McKillop's husband, Rev. Charles McKillop, an early Presbyterian missionary in southern Alberta, pre-deceased her.

Elizabeth Ferguson McKillop devoted herself extensively to the betterment of the welfare of her fellows.

She came west to Lethbridge, from Ontario, in 1907, one year after her husband, who died in Lethbridge in 1907.

Mrs. McKillop was visiting her daughter, Mrs. James McCaig, 10043 116 street at the time of her death.

In addition to Mrs. McCaig, she is survived by two other daughters, Mrs. J. A. Summers of this city and Mrs. D. W. Bayard of Long, N. Y., and one son, George B. McKillop of Lethbridge.

The funeral will take place at Lethbridge on Jan. 27, arrangements being made by Foster and McGregor of this city for shipment of the body south.

RETAILERS TO MEET IN CITY LATE FEBRUARY

February 21 and 22 are tentative dates for annual meeting of the Alberta provincial board of the Retail Merchants Association of Canada, which will be held in Edmonton, according to Secretary A. G. Mackay. A board meeting which opened in Red Deer Wednesday would likely fix these dates for the meeting, it was reported.

W. D. Craig, Olds, acting president of the Alberta branch of the Dominion retailers' organization, opened the Red Deer meeting, and Clayton Adams, Edmonton, chairman of the board of public relations, was scheduled to be guest speaker. The agenda included discussion of problems of Alberta retailers, including the Minimum Wage Act.

Secretary McKay was reported as having said at Calgary Tuesday that the association favored the Minimum Wage Act being applied to all employees, but that certain classes would have to be dealt with on the basis of the employer's ability to pay.

Consideration Is Being Given Reply On B.N.A. Act Move

Reply of the provincial government to the request of the Dominion for the consent to amend the British North America Act to enable the Dominion to take over the cost of unemployment insurance, is under consideration, according to Premier William Aberhart.

It is likely that a reply will be drafted and forwarded by the end of this week.

The suggested amendment merely adds two words to the B.N.A. Act, namely, "(Unemployment Insurance)", these words indicating those things over which the province exercises jurisdiction.

Ralphe Forsyth Was Known Here

Although he is known to the police of Seattle as the man who drowned in an alleged attempt to wreck the Japanese steamship Miyo Maru, Ralphe Forsyth, Vancouver school teacher, is known to Edmonton chicken farmers as an authority on chick-sexing.

According to Jack Edwards, proprietor of Edwards' Poultry Farm and Hatchery, 6811 81 street, one of the best books on chick-sexing, "Chick-Sexing Made Easy," published in 1934, was written by Forsyth.

Maniac Murders Are Investigated

BOSTON, Jan. 26.—Under orders of Governor Charles Murphy, Massachusetts police officials last night began an investigation of three "maniac murders" at the Medfield state hospital.

Eugene M. Stedronsky, recently appointed state commissioner of public safety, was told to make a "personal, thorough and complete investigation" of the deaths of Barney Sarkisian, 67, last Aug. 4, and Peter Fry, 67, and Florence Clarkson, 64, last Saturday. All were patients.

All were wounded fatally by blunt instruments. Special Officer named James Castillo as the slayer of Sarkisian and Frank Lozzie, 61, as the killer of the other two.

Timmins Hemmed In

TIMMINS, Ont., Jan. 26.—Timmins was hemmed in by a 6-inch snowfall today, believed to have broken all previous records for the northern city.

C. C. Swartz, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, director of the Swartz Oil and Gas Company there, and who in 1933 was employed in putting in the gas lines in Edmonton, is a visitor to the city and at the Macdonald hotel Wednesday. This is his first visit to the city since then. He is here on business with officials of the Gas Company.

Trail Rangers will commence their share selling to members of city churches, etc., on Saturday. Any Trail Ranger group collecting $25 or more is entitled to send a member to Edmonton District Camp without charge.

Credit Of Society Is Defined By L. D. Byrne To Study Class Here

Definition of the "credit of society" featured the address of L. D. Byrne, provincial credit commissioner, to the lecture and study course on Social Dynamics at the Memorial hall Tuesday night.

"The credit of society," he said, "is the belief inherent in society that each individual member in association can get what they want."

MOTIVE POWER

This belief, he suggested, was the motive power that had given birth to civilization and the organization of communities.

"This credit of society is not a scheme, is not a nostrum, is not a party political doctrine. It is a power," Mr. Byrne said in defining the term and explaining the sense in which it was to be used in the course.

In the opening lecture the speaker said that the course was to be non-political in nature, from which party politics was to be excluded.

ANTEDATED CIVILIZATION

The "credit of society" was not "discovered" by Major C. H. Douglas, Mr. Byrne said in explaining that this belief in the value of association to gain objects impossible of realization by individuals in isolation has antedated civilization and had in fact been responsible for it.

Value of Major Douglas' work, he continued, was to show how this "credit of society" could be used to solve some of the current social problems perplexing the world.

Most important question to ask of any society is what is its "objective," Mr. Byrne said in asserting that the ideal objective was to give the individual maximum security and maximum freedom.

EAST MINING MEN LOOKING TO NORTHWEST

The eyes of the mining world are shifting from developments in Ontario, where active workings are replacing wildcat ventures and prospecting, to the Yellowknife and Great Bear Lake districts in the Northwest Territories, the extent of which are yet to be proved, stated V. Patriarche, of Winnipeg, general traffic manager of Canadian Airways, who is spending a few days in the city checking traffic and schedules with Capt. W. R. "Wop" May, divisional superintendent for the company.

"Sioux Lookout district has now reached the stable stage," said Mr. Patriarche, "but the general indications are that the coming season will see greater activity in the district north of Edmonton than in any other section of the Dominion."

Northern transportation, particularly by air, usually experiences a "dead spot" between the middle of January and the end of February, he said. But this year the slump will not be nearly so pronounced as in former years, and machines will keep busy.

"A brief survey of the business in sight indicates a considerable increase in the volume of business over the corresponding period for last year," he said.

10,425 LISTED AS UNEMPLOYED

Registered unemployed in Alberta on December 31 totalled 10,425, according to figures released on Wednesday by officials of the Alberta Unemployment Service. This is an increase of 1,000 figures for the previous week, when the total was 9,425.

Calgary led the cities of the province in unemployment, with 1,421 registered, while Edmonton's total was second with 1,248 males and 426 females.

Lethbridge had 516 males and 52 females; Medicine Hat had 482 males and 52 females, and Drumheller had 300 males and 20 females.

TARIFF BOARD STUDIES CHARTS ON CRUDE PETE

CALGARY, Jan. 26.—Charts and statistical reports telling the story in "facts and figures" of the Turner Valley oil field and its 25 crude oil producing wells engaged the attention of the Federal Tariff Board Tuesday.

In Calgary to investigate the oil marketing situation, chairman George Sedgewick and Milton Campbell and Charles Hebert, board members, met Tuesday in the office of the Calgary branch of the Alberta government petroleum and natural gas division of the Department of Lands and Mines.

The federal board members spent the day with Hon. N. E. Tanner, Alberta Minister of Lands and Mines, in a study of the reports prepared by government engineers and geologists.

Today Mr. Sedgewick and his colleagues will motor to Turner Valley, 35 miles southwest of here, for a personal survey of the field. They will be accompanied by Mr. Tanner and members of his staff.

Imperial Veterans Honor Robt. Burns

Edmonton branch of the Imperial Veterans of Canada honored the memory of Robert Burns on Tuesday by holding its first annual Burns concert in the Masonic Temple Tuesday night.

Presided over by Capt. R. B. Anderson, the program featured the Orpheus Male Chorus of Edmonton. Recitations of "To a Mountain Daisy", "Tam O'Shanter" and "Address to the Haggis" were given by William Minshall-Ward, of the Edmonton Institute for the Blind.

Songs also were sung by Miss Mary Bonthall, R. Bonthall and David C. Ross, while selections by W. Vaughan and the accompanist were T. E. Mansell.

Joseph L. Caputo, Edmonton, was granted a decree nisi from Julia Caputo by Mr. Justice W. R. Howson on the usual undefended grounds in supreme court Thursday afternoon. Custody of the infant child was given defendant, and plaintiff was ordered to pay $10 monthly for the child's support until it is 16 years of age.

REPLACEMENT TRUSS SPAN IS UNDER WAY

Replacement of the timber bridge on 105 street near Summit Avenue at a cost of $25,000 is now proceeding and bridge builders are replacing old structure in section. City Engineer A. W. Haddow said Wednesday.

The span being replaced is the first one south of 102 avenue on the road to Lister Park and traffic is being detoured via 104 street during the construction which will last for approximately a month.

Timber is being used for the new bridge, which will have a life-time of between 35 and 40 years. The engineering department is doing the work.

The Inquiring Reporter

What do you think of the suggestion advanced before the Royal Commission on Dominion-provincial relations, that the Canadian government be determined, parliament abolished and the provinces developed as nine sovereign states?

The Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter put the question to several people and here are some of the results:

JACK GOLDIE, formerly of the Bowling Navy: I am definitely against such a move. I don't think it would be in the interests of any one province in Canada to take such action. Canada has been built up by unified effort of all sections. To decentralize would break the country up into too many parts, with no one part attaining anything like the greatness that it does in unity.

O. ZELLER, Canadian Press staff: I cannot see much merit in the suggestion. It is one of those things that might seem reasonable on paper, but I don't think for one minute that it would work out in practice. If nine provinces cut out their own rules to fight the battle of economic survival and sustenance, all would have a difficult time. No one province is self-sustaining and the difficulties of survival of any province acting independently would be tremendous. For the good of all, I think they should stay together.

WANDA HOWARD, student: Confederation was the best of time well and I can see no virtue in the suggested disintegration of the Dominion and the reconstruction of government. Much more do I favor the present system, with its nine provinces each having a government, but all under the guidance of a central government. I think the same plan as a department store. Few departments would prosper on their own, but all working together make up an organization valuable and profitable.

WILLIAM FRASER, businessman: No dice with me. Looking back on history, we find that confederation came at a high price. We do not want to set these lightly aside. No doubt there are shortcomings in things as they are at present, but the provincial governments as well as the Dominion are working toward rectifying these matters. For the present I say hands off confederation, and keep the flag flying over the Dominion for the good of all.

Churches Appeal For Funds To Aid Stricken Chinese

Appeal will be made from all Edmonton pulpits for three consecutive Sundays to raise funds to aid the Red Cross in ministering to the stricken civilian population of China. First appeal was made in churches of all denominations last Sunday. At First Presbyterian Church, Rev. Ross K. Cameron read a letter from Sir Henry Thornton, national campaign chairman, as well as an appeal from the moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. All money collected in this campaign is earmarked for this special purpose of aiding Chinese civilians.

Thomas P. Pildes Dies At Age Of 50

Funeral services will be held for Thomas Prosper Pildes, on Thursday, January 27, at 3 p.m. from Anderson's funeral chapel and interment will take place in the Edmonton cemetery.

Mr. Pildes died in an Edmonton hospital, Tuesday night, at the age of 50 years after a short illness. He was a member of the Elks Lodge.

Surviving are his wife, one daughter, Mrs. E. F. Fallenberg, Jr., Harry, both of Edmonton, two sisters, Mrs. D. Beaklan and Mrs. A. Gray, both of Aberdeen, Scotland; two brothers, John of Spirit River, Percy of Edmonton, and George of Vancouver.

Rev. S. A. Carlson will conduct the services.

Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, has returned from attending the International Road Show at Cleveland, O. On the way back, he stopped at St. Paul and Chicago to inspect new road oiling machinery. G. H. N. Monkman, deputy minister of public works, accompanied him.

I Saw Today

discussing sports with other enthusiasts in the central section of the city;

AND

Tommy Graham giving his views on junior hockey to a rising young hockey star; Alex. McNeil discussing the Burns Club banquet with a friend near Jasper and 101 street; All. Howe turning south on 109 street from Jasper; Art Higginbotham observing traffic laws as he drove west along the main boulevard; Cst. F. C. Jamieson, V.D., R.C., taking a constitutional from his South Side home to his North Side office; J. E. S. McCrimmon ascending the 109 street hill; W. T. Cromb heading for the central part of the city from the west end; J. A. MacGregor in the Corona hotel rotunda.

Building permits have been issued by the city recently to the following: National Blend Tea and Coffee company, frame warehouse building at 10223 Jasper avenue, $1,200; Union Oil Company Limited, sheet metal storage shed at 7927 102 street, $1,500; Thomas Hull, frame office building at 9720 99 street, $500.

BILL RATE TO BE DISCUSSED AT MEETING

Commissioners To Talk Preliminary Steps On 1938 Budget

As a preliminary step to the fixing of the 1938 mill rate, the commissioners will shortly hold a series of committee board meetings on this year's budget, it was reported at city hall today. Total for the 1937 tax rate was 56 mills.

A few civic departments have already completed estimates of revenue and expenditure for the year, while other branches of the service are busy closing the books on 1937 operations.

TENTATIVE BUDGET

After commissioners have reviewed the estimates, they will submit a tentative budget to city council for consideration; it is expected the budget will be brought down to council in February.

Another question now before the commissioners is union agreements covering the various branches of the service. When existing agreements, or revisions in their agreements, they are submitted to commissioners for approval during the first two months of the year.

Curious World — —By William Ferguson

Examinations made at the Johns Hopkins University showed that out of 480 infants only 58 had plain blue eyes. Examine a baby's eyes closely, with good illumination and a magnifying glass, and you will be able to see the real eye color shining through the cloudy, dark-blue veil.

ACTIVITIES OF RIGHTS SOCIETY TO BE CURBED

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26.—Legislation by the Dominion government to curb effects of the Canadian Rights Performing Rights Society, Limited, to collect fees from small business men who operate radios in public places was urged in the Manitoba legislature today.

W. R. Sexsmith (Cons. Portage La Prairie), said complaints of the society's activities led him to introduce a resolution in the Manitoba house, to bring changes in the law and eliminate injustice to the public.

He intimated the complaints came from small operators of radios in restaurants, hotels, rinks, churches and schools and that the society desired to collect fees for copyright music that comes over the air.

Large Losses Sustained By Chinese, Japs

SHANGHAI, Jan. 26—Heavy casualties were reported Tuesday in bitter hand-to-hand fighting along the Yangtze river above Nanking as reinforced Chinese and Japanese armies launched new offensives simultaneously.

Chinese said both sides suffered severe losses as they fought for 60 miles up the river from the hours at close range near Wuhu, former Chinese capital, with Japanese warships shelling Chinese positions.

They placed their own casualties at 400, but made no estimate of the enemy's.

The Chinese reported they captured Hohsien, 8 miles down the river from Wuhu, near the scene of the bombing of the gunboat Panay, December 12.

Racing Reforms

Speers Reports

Battling Gals

MORE stringent supervision and control of racing in western Canada during the coming season was foreshadowed in the reports which James Speers and R. D. Adams presented at the recent annual meeting of the Prairie Thoroughbred Breeders' and Racing Association—the supervising body of western racing.

Speers, honorary secretary of the association, laid special emphasis on the fact that R. D. Adams should not be asked to act as presiding steward by the various exhibition associations and jockey clubs staging race meets. The reason for this is that Adams is the supervising steward of the Prairie Thoroughbred Breeders' and Racing Association and, as such, is charged with seeing that the work of the presiding steward at each meet is properly done and that penalties imposed by them are carried out.

To save a comparatively paltry sum, exhibition associations and jockey clubs have been using Adams, against his will, as their own presiding steward. The result is that he is placed in the position of serving two masters and being the censor and final court of appeal for his own actions.

No man can do either job properly under such conditions and Adams has protested on that point repeatedly. There is no excuse for him being forced into this dual position . . . except that the exhibition associations and jockey clubs are pinching pennies. On the amount of money taken last year there seems no excuse for this dubious piece of thrift.

Another point on which Speers laid stress was the fact that "touts" were probably the greatest curse of the betting enclosures. It is amazing though the number of hard-headed business men right here in Edmonton who think that they are getting some red-hot pay-off dope when they shell out dough to some tout who probably knows less about the horses than they do themselves.

It would probably cure these bettors of touts for life if they ever rode a horse train from one meet to the other and happened to get into a car with some of these wise-cracking dopesters. They would hear themselves referred to as "easy fish," "rubes," "smokers" and "dumb sugar." They are the laughing stock of the circuit.

Enforcement Branch Imperative

LAST summer attention was drawn to the abuses Speer mentions in a special series of articles on the western racing situation that appeared exclusively in The Bulletin. I contended at that time that these and other abuses, which Speers' report also deals with, could only be effectively controlled by setting up an efficient investigation force that would follow the western circuit throughout the season.

Since the Prairie Thoroughbred Breeders' and Racing Association is the supervising body of racing on the prairies, it is the body that must set up this investigation force and make it responsible to R. D. Adams. Three top-notch detectives would be sufficient, but they should be paid enough to insure their integrity.

The cost of operating this investigation department should be assessed pro rata against the exhibition associations and jockey clubs staging meets. They can all afford it. It is a cheap way of insuring that the confidence of the betting public will not be lost. Lose that once and it will cost more to get it back than to operate the department for 20 years. Unfortunately, Speers' report did not suggest definite methods of removing existing abuses.

It is useless substituting local police for a special investigation force. The locals haven't the connections and knowledge needed to handle race problems—many of which do not come under the Criminal Code. With such a special department, touts and their bum steers could be run out of any park, tampering with horses could be checked down to an absolute minimum and betting coups by insiders could be uncovered.

These Gals Made History

ONE of the quaintest bits in the long history of boxing was a couple of ads that appeared in a London paper in June, 1722. It was a public challenge from one woman to another to fight it out with their fists. The two gals will never be forgotten as long as boxing histories are printed. Here are the famous ads:

"Challenge—I, Elizabeth Wilkinson, of Clerkwell, having had some words with Hannah Hyfield, and requiring satisfaction, do invite her to meet me upon the stage, and to box me for three guineas, each woman holding half a crown in each hand and the first woman that drops the money to lose the battle."

Hannah came right back with this ad in acceptance:

"I, Hannah Hyfield, of Newgate Market, hearing of the resoluteness of Elizabeth Wilkinson, will not fail, God willing, to give her more blows than words—desiring home blows, and from her no favor; she may expect a good thumping."

I have yet, however, to find out who won that famous thumping bout. No books that I have run across record the outcome. If any reader happens to know, I'd appreciate hearing from him.

Two Gun Lou Gehrig

Lou Gehrig pats his mouth during the filming of his initial motion picture "Rawhide." Here Iron Man of the New York Yankees appears as a baseball player who retires to live peacefully on a western ranch. Cattle rackeleers and a pretty girl thwart his plans. Note the plow-horse they got Lou.

Soops Must Win or Drop Play-off Hopes Thursday

THURSDAY night out at the Arena here two old and bitter rivals will square off against each other when the Dominions and Superiors clash again in a Big Six Hockey League fixture that is timed to start at 8:30 p.m.

It will be do or die for the Soops. They still have a mathematical chance of getting into a play-off berth, but if they lose to-night they will be definitely out with no chance of getting back into the title picture.

There is also a good chance that the boys may get a little rough before the night is over. There never was any love of lore between these two clubs and with the crocking up of Jimmy Anderson and Harold Wismer recently this feeling has become even more intense.

The whistle tooters will likely be keeping their eyes peeled all the way for buttends of sticks, knees and other trifles.

CAMROSE HOCKEY TEAMS TRIUMPH

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

CAMROSE, Jan. 26.—Last Saturday night the Camrose "Peewee" Maple Leaf hockey team journeyed to Wetaskiwin and came home victorious in their first encounter of the season. The score of 3-2 for the Camrose club just about indicated the game.

The same evening at Camrose, the Camrose High school team once again administered defeat on the Wetaskiwin High school team by a score of 5-3. This was a very exciting game as Wetaskiwin had been beaten twice previously and were out to win a game but failed to accomplish this as the Camrose High were superior in most places.

Bob White of Wetaskiwin was judge of play while Theo Bailey of Camrose was referee in charge. A large crowd witnessed the game. Two penalties for each aggregation was handed out.

The Camrose Commercials playing their first game away were unable to defeat Bawlf Saturday night after overtime had been played, this was due to one of their defencemen, Alex Burgess, joining the bands of matrimony when he was married to Miss Jessie Farquharson Saturday afternoon.

Wetaskiwin's Home Team Wins By 7-5

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

WETASKIWIN, Jan. 26. — The Wetaskiwin Colonels, a strictly local hockey club, entertained the Tofield club at Wetaskiwin on Tuesday and in a snappy exhibition of hockey scored seven goals to the visitors' 5 counters.

One goal was scored in the first frame by Fred Ramsden for the home boys. Tofield scored four in the second frame while Wetaskiwin scored 3 to bring the score to a tie. The Swinton-Worth combination scored three while the three Kirstein brothers had a hand in the Wetaskiwin tallies. The Colonels scored three goals in the third period, Ramsden, Moon, Lindsay, McLaughlin, K. Kirstein, Mercer, while Sears scored the lone counter for the visitors.

LINEUP

Tofield: Bowick, Glover, Everett, Smith, Worton, Swinton, Sears, Hutchison, White.

Colonels: Baker, K. Kirstein, Moar, Spencer, McIlhargey, Mercer, Ramsden, R. Kirstein, McLaughlin, Lindsay, F. Kirstein.

VOYAGEURS CLUB PLANS SKI TRAIN TO POWDER SNOW

Arrangements have been made by the Voyageurs club to run a special ski train from Edmonton to Banff for the week-end of Feb. 5, 6 and 7. It will leave here at 11.55 p.m., Feb. 5, stop for an hour in Calgary for breakfast and reach Banff at 10.00 a.m. Sunday. The return trip starts from Banff at 10.00 p.m. Sunday and lands the skiers back in Edmonton at 6.45 a.m. Monday.

A special club fare includes breakfast in Calgary, transfer from Banff depot to Mount Norquay ski camp, lunch, dinner in Banff and transportation back to depot.

Special railway coaches will be operated which will permit excursionists to stretch out and relax. Everyone should bring blankets or sleeping bags in order to assure themselves of the maximum rest. Everything not needed in Banff can be left on the train for use on the return trip.

In addition to the all-inclusive features outlined above, arrangements have been made to keep the Cave and Basin swimming pool open until 7.00 p.m. Sunday, for the skiers only wishing to combine powder snow skiing and warm sulphur water swimming. Also, a half-mile toboggan slide down Tunnel Mountain will be in operation Sunday afternoon and evening. The added cost of these attractions is very small.

The ski train is not restricted to skiers only. Banff in winter dress holds a score of attractions for everyone—and everyone is welcome.

Camrose Normal Students' 'Spiel Goes To Finals

CAMROSE, Jan. 26.—The Camrose Normal school curling rinks skipped by Caldwell and Herrington will meet in the finals of the Grand Challenge event of a Normal School bonspiel to be played at the Camrose rink, Saturday. Caldwell defeated Kravetz 11-7 to enter the final Bracket with Herrington winning from Stewart 11-5. The rinks were skipped by members of the Camrose club, but the rest of the rinks were made up of Normal students.

Following are the results of play in the spiel: Pearson defeated Hume 9-2; Kravetz defeated Nordbye 6-4; Dumbuck defeated Russell 5-4; Caldwell defeated McCleery 7-6; Hawks defeated Haverstock 5-3; Herrington defeated Lewis 6-3; Baron defeated Durrette 4-3; Stewar. defeated Munro 8-5.

In the 8:. Kravetz defeated Pearson 8-4; Caldwell defeated Dumbuck 8-4; Herrington beat Hawks 10-6. Stewart beat Larson 6-3. In the finals C. C. Caldwell beat Kravetz 11-7; Herrington beat Stewart 12-9.

WICHITA WINS

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 26.—Wichita Skyhawks defeated Tulsa Oilers 4-1 last night in the American Hockey Association. Paddy Paddon and Shirley McPherson counted for Wichita in the first period. Biff Ranger and Joe Pasake in the third. Williams counted for Oilers in the third.

E.A.C.'S JUMP MIDGET LEAD WITH 2-1 WIN

Goldstick's Gladiators Rush Past Rival Leaf A's In Hard Game

E.A.C. jumped into a three point lead in the city midget hockey league last night, when they broke through the Maple Leaf "A" sextet for a 2-1 victory. Johnny Turner played a marvelous game for the Clubmen as he kicked out the rubber in dazzling fashion.

That ace scoring combination of Jennings and Maher gave E.A.C. the all-important jump in the scoring, as they slipped the puck into the Leaf's net on a pretty passing play, that saw Jennings do the actual scoring. Turner was in rare form as he stopped shot after shot with Maple Leafs trying desperately to tie up the game, but it was well into the middle session before Proulx could score to tie up the game.

In the third period, Jennings went sailing in on the Leaf net only to have Black throw his stick, knocking the rubber to the corner, but the referee awarded the goal to the Clubmen.

Leaf "B" Squad Cops 4-1 Margin

The Maple Leaf "B" Midgets got some measure of revenge for their club-mates' defeat as they scuttled the Crusader "B" club for a convincing 4-1 win at the Stadium rink last night.

Crusaders' lone tally of the contest came in the first period from the stick of McCurdy, while the Leafs kept even on an effort by Williams. The second and last Leafs jump into a 3-1 lead as Ward and Mazurek scored, while Maguff made it 4-1 with a third period goal.

Crusaders Take Riverdale Team

Riverdale and Crusaders, of the Midget Hockey league, were both playing great hockey last night as the Crusaders finally got in but with a 2-1 decision. The opening stanza saw both goalies kick out all the rubber that came flying from the sticks, but Perras scored for Crusaders in the second. Then the game was tied up in the third by Hawg and Sigaty got together for a Riverdale tally, only to have Perras collect his second goal of the evening to give Crusaders the game.

LAVOIE TOUGH RASSLING REF FRIDAY BOUTS

Knowing only too well that he faces a tough assignment when he steps into the ring to referee the main wrestling event at the Memorial Hall next week, when Jacobsen and Ossie Mosfeldt this Friday, Louis Lavoie has hit the gym floor at the "Y" and is training seriously for the referee job. Lavoie, knowing he will be given a tough session, is preparing to be at his peak when he orders those tough rascals—the wrestlers—to break.

Lavoie refereed his first bout last Friday in a preliminary. He proved so popular the public now demands he referee the Jacobsen-Mosfeldt return bout as that a repetition of last week's officiating does not occur. Last week a riotous ending had everyone wild as Mosfeldt beat Jacobsen, mainly because he clouted Jacobsen over the head with a chair. This week Lavoie claims nothing like that will happen.

This main event is labelled a "hot" affair. There's bound to be fireworks and it probably will come from the most unexpected quarter.

Giving sparkling support to the main joust will be a semi-main between Maurice DeBleick and Gil Pearson, while Terzan Macrae meets Darby Melnick in a secondary semi-main. A preliminary is being arranged.

Hughenden Club Is Thumped 7-4, Then Turns In 9-4 Win

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

HUGHENDEN, Jan. 26.—The Hughenden Rink Rats turned in a win and a loss in games played Saturday. In the afternoon they lost 7-4 to Highland View, but came right back in the evening to drub the North sextet 9-4.

LINEUPS

Highland View: A. Clark, Abbot, W. Clark, Livingstone, S. Fuglem, P. Fuglem, A. Strandberg and B. Broughton.

Rink Rats: D. McDevitt, Jack Martin, A. Cadogan, F. Stapley, A. Key, R. Stapley, Joe Mallineau, L. Snow, S. Houde and J. Miles.

Gotham Blueshirts Score 3-2 Triumph Before 16,500 Fans

Hextall, Coulter and Keeling Rap Home Counters — Cowley Gets Both Of Boston's Goals

BOSTON, Jan. 26.—New York Rangers, gathering momentum in the National Hockey League stretch race, defeated Boston 3-2 last night and pulled up to within a single game of the section-leading Boston team. A record crowd of more than 16,500 watched the game.

It was a brulsing contest from start to finish, during which the Bruins pulled even twice on the pair of goals that Bill Cowley slapped through little Davey Kerr in the second and third periods.

With only five minutes to play Ott Heller dashed down the right lane and passed out to Phil Watson. The latter's close-up shot pulled Tiny Thompson out of the Boston net and before he could scramble back, Butch Keeling rapped home the winning goal into an empty cage.

Heller's first dash of the game paved the way for the first Ranger score, made by Bryan Hextall, with Watson assisting, during the sixth minute of play. Cowley made it 1-1 during the 14th minute of the second frame, with Woody Dumart and Jack Portland assisting.

Rangers were playing short-handed when Cowley countered his final tally, and 58 seconds later before they regained full strength. Art Coulter paced them into a 2-1 lead by trapping the Bruins in his zone and soloing for New York's second goal. Cowley's second tally of the game, his 13th of the season, came during the third minute of the final session.

LINEUPS

BAYS BOUNCE UP AGAINST CAPITAL SIX

Those hard-fighting, two-fisted Capital hockey players of the Intermediate loop make their last appearance in regular league warfare tonight at Varsity rink, when they meet the celler-dwelling Hudson's Bay Beavers. The packers are hoping to end their schedule in a blaze of glory, by smothering the Beavers under a mighty heavy load of goals.

But the Bays have a few ideas about doing a little blazing themselves. In fact they intend to start a real fight right into the league playoffs, and what's more they plan to take a mighty long stride along that trail tonight. The Intermediate League is fast gaining recognition for the rugged brand of hockey it produces and tonight's contest promises to keep up the rough work.

The game will start at 8:30.

McLachlan Boys Lead Viking Six To 4-2 Victory

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

VIKING, Jan. 26—Sparked by the playing of the five McLachlan brothers, Ross Creek's hockey club skated to a 4-2 decision win over the Viking seniors in the opening game of a doubleheader, played at Viking Friday night. JASPER EMERGES WITH THRILLING WIN OVER EDSON

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

EDSON, Jan. 26—Some 800 fans were in an uproar, Sunday afternoon as the Jasper hockey club squeezed through with a 4-3 overtime victory over the Edson sextet at Edson. It was the fastest and most thrilling tilt played in the Edson rink this season.

Jasper jumped into the lead after two minutes of play in the second period as Callam raced the puck deep into Edson territory to flip a pass over to McClure for the game's opening counter. Seventeen minutes later the score was tied as S. Bridges banged through the Edson defence for a goal.

Callam again put the Jasper crew in the lead late in the third period only to have Bridges slide a pass over to G. Keefe to tie things up again, when only 10 seconds remained to play. McGuir grabbed the rubber right from the faceoff of the overtime session to blast a shot past the Edson goalie for the winning marker.

LINEUPS

Terrible Bill Takes War Trail With Pen Pointed at Scribes

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—"Terrible" Terry has met his enemies in print—and it's war to the finish. His magazine article, on Saturday, touches off a bomb that's sure to blow something or someone to bits. To the general reading public, it's just an innocent success story about Terry the "martyr" but it's a bristling challenge to baseball writers.

Outwardly, Horatio Alger could not have done a better writing job for his most loved hero than Bill Terry did for Bill Terry. To fans who do not know the inside of the New York Giant manager's triumphs and temper, it was merely about a ball player who overcame big obstacles. It featured dips at baseball writers whom he did not have the courage to name.

The whole article might have been passed over by the baseball writers as so much pop-off if Terrible Terry hadn't cast aspersions on the honesty of the writers who did the Giant beat during the stormy days when Terrible Terry broke all rookie rules by holding out for more money.

Terry claimed the writers worked hand in hand with John McGraw by telling the world that Terry was just another big player. He didn't come right out and say the writers were "bought" by McGraw and made him look mean that way. But the writers think it was a blow of the foulest type.

TUT, TUT, COLONEL!

Terry, in his article, writes voluminously on the effort of a New York sports editor to get his telephone number. "I never mix business and my family affairs," the colonel says. Yet, he writes his story and brings in his family from his wife to his youngest son.

Giving sports editors home telephone numbers is common in the trade. Such numbers are not wanted to get "exclusive" stories as Terry claims but for checking purposes. All too often, a prominent man is attacked in print and newspapers figure the man attacked certainly deserves the right to answer.

Another item in Terry's piece that irritates New York sports writers is his story of the chastisement of Clydell Castleman, the pitcher. Terry says he knew the only way to break Castleman's lazy ways was to make him pitch a full game, once a day, and he protests because baseball writers with the club criticized him for making Castleman "take it" for nine blistering innings that hot day in Cincinnati.

Yet, the truth of it is the writers asked Terry for an explanation of the strange procedure and he told them to "get the hell out of my way."

Terry long contended newspapermen, who travelled with the team at the club's expense, were chiselers but he changed his tune when a certain newspaper offered to pay its writer's way if the Giants paid for all the advertising they got daily in the newspaper involved.

Referee's Language Shown In One Easy Lesson

The signs shown here are those employed by officials in a basketball game. In the double dribble, or steps, the thumb is pointed out, denoting the player with the ball has broken his dribble. A double foul is indicated by outstretched arms, used when a penalty is called on two opposing players for a simultaneous infraction of the rules. Charging, or hard body contact, is indicated by arms, with clenched fists, crossed over the chest. Hacking is shown by the arm, palm out, moving from shoulder to hip, denoting that a defensive player has hacked at an offensive shooter or dribbler in an attempt to get ball or block shot. Holding is illustrated by one hand grasping the wrist of the other. A jump ball is called with a hands out, thumbs up motion. Penalty for pushing is indicated by hands held parallel to face, palms out, and moved forward and backward vigorously. No score, or basket doesn't count, is indicated by both hands crossed back and forth vigorously at wrists.

E.A.C. JUNIORS RETURN TRIUMPHANT

But Styles Vary Somewhat According To Sections

By JERRY BEONDFIELD
(Special Bulletin Writer)

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Although basketball is very much standardized in regard to the rules of the game, it probably varies more in style of play throughout the country than any other major sport.

Basketball as played on the Pacific coast follows a vastly different pattern than that found in the midwest. And by the same token the boys in the Rocky Mountain section play a much different game than that of the east or south.

According to John Bunn, Stanford coach and one of the best authorities on the game in the country, this is no unnatural phenomenon. Coaches entertain certain ideas and just don't get around to any radical departure from their systems.

Bunn, for instance, frankly and without showing any prejudice, believes that the west coast colleges play the best balanced basketball in the land.

"Out here," he says, "we don't go offense' crazy or spend our nights planning air-tight defenses. We try to strike a happy medium, and I believe we've found it."

DEFENSE UNIMPORTANT

Rocky Mountain schools are noted for their race-horse tendencies. In that area the field goal is supreme and the big idea is to get as many of them as possible and let the defence go hang. High-scoring games are the natural result. It's great for the spectators but competent critics hardly call it the best basketball exiant.

The midwest, adversely, is known as defensive play. Here are found the best guards in the country, and winning scores often fail to go over the 25-point mark . . . very often, lower.

Not that midwestern quints aren't capable of showering the meshes from all angles. Far from it. Team's like Purdue and Notre Dame frequently ring the bell at 50 points or better, which is all the points anyone could want.

The east, long known to be the most conservative section in the country, has been less willing to deviate from its style of play than any other district. For the most part, it uses a short-passing, loose guarding game. Loose, not in the sense of being lax, but rather an absence of body contact.

INTERPRETED DIFFERENTLY

As has been said before, the game is very much standardized, yet this does not prevent different interpretation of the rules. Body contact in the midwest may become very rough and vicious before a foul is called, while in the east, the mere suggestion of roughing is instantly called by the officials.

Screen plays, or "pick-offs" are looked upon with suspicion along the Atlantic seaboard. and often as not, result in a foul, yet mid-western, southern and far western teams use this style of play with great freedom.

In fact, this maneuver, which by split-second blocking of a defensive player's path gives a man a clear shot at the basket, has proved a big bone of contention in the past every time a "foreign" invader came east.

Perhaps it's all for the best that the game does vary. There's nothing as spicy as variety.

Amateur Athletic Official Dies

MONTREAL, Jan. 26.—James Macdonald, 64, vice president of the Quebec branch of the Amateur Athletic Association of Canada, died at his home here Tuesday. He was stricken yesterday returning home from work. Widely known in Canadian sports circles, he was a life member of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association.

Gomez Dissatisfied With New Salary

RENO, Nev., Jan. 26.—Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, New York Yankees' ace pitcher, Tuesday announced he was dissatisfied with a $15,000 salary offer for his services next year. "That's only a raise of $1,500 over last year," Gomez said.

Clubmen Clout Mountain Park 15-0 and Are Ready to Shellack Safeways in Game At Arena Tonight

SOMEWHAT train weary, but fresh from a successful hockey tour on the Coal Branch, Stan Moher's Edmonton Athletic Club juniors arrived home last night showing plenty of spirit in explaining their 15-0 triumph against Mountain Park Monday night and were verbally loud in stating they would pin a defeat up against Safeways at the Arena tonight.

IN FIGHTING TRIM

The club team arrived at the Canadian National depot last night, showing slight signs of their tough grind in the branch with two or three of the boys nursing colds. However, with a good night's sleep behind them and with the thought of hitting league schedule tonight, they announced they would be in fighting trim for tonight's clash against the safeways.

E.A.C.'s did right well on their coal branch tour. They lost the first game by a 7-3 score, but held the same Luscar team scoreless in overtime in the second contest. Monday night they climbed higher in the coal branch mountains and clipped the Park club 15-0. In the game they lost, according to even the most rabid Luscar fan, the Clubmen had a margin of play.

Their game against Mountain Park, however, was a soft touch with four goals in the first period, eight in the second and three in the third. Bud Foley was the big point getter, according to the boys, with four goals and seven assists with Carse second with two goals and six assists. Lucier and Poulsom champ got three goals while Steffes got two and Tougas one.

HAS PLENTY TIMES

E.A.C.'s according to correspondent reports, was the best liked touring team to hit the branch towns in many seasons. Everyone likes their style of play and the boys were instructed before to that friendly spirit so prominent in the branch. The boys, too, made the scribe promise faithfully that he would point their sincere thanks to the people who treated them so well.

Bawlf Curlers In Daysland Bonspiel

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

BAWLF, Jan. 26.—The Bawlf rink of Don Robinson (skip) Kirkpatrick, Vroman and Eggen gave the Bawlf curling fans a short evening thrill, when they returned from the Daysland spiel with the cup, but they had only two rinks to take part in, losing both their games. Other Bawlf curlers enjoying better success at the spiel are Jack Aldridge, Alex Gunner Holt, Dado Molstad and Jocks Matson; J. Ohman (skip), Max Kirkpatrick, Cliff Soberg and S. Gjeljvick.

A Very Bad Start

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

NEW SAREPTA, Jan. 26.—After running up an impressive record of games won, the New Norway hockey club started the week the wrong way as they were drubbed 10-3, Sunday afternoon and then slipped again Monday to receive a 9-4 trimming.

Springfield Holds Hornets To Tie

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 26.—An overtime period last night failed to break a 2-2 tie in a rough and tumble International-American Hockey League game between Springfield Indians and Pittsburgh Hornets.

Wally Kilres of Pittsburgh opened the scoring but Springfield equalized on a three-man rush climaxed by Alfred Thurier's goal. Both teams counted once in each third period—Joe Lamb scoring for Pittsburgh and Cliff McBride for Springfield.

Five Reinstated Toronto Hockey

TORONTO, Jan. 26.—Officials of the Ontario Hockey Association announced last night five former professional players have been reinstated by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

The five were: Eric Pettinger, formerly of Regina and coach of the London intermediate team; Wilfrid McLeod, Stratford; Douglas Brennan, Havelock; Bernard Brophy, Collingwood; and James Hugins, South Porcupine.

Five Draws Played With Thirty-four Quartets in Action

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

RED DEER Jan. 26.—Play made good progress on Tuesday, the first day of the Red Deer Curling Club's 28th annual bonspiel. Five draws were played on seven sheets of ice for a total of 35 games and the two Primary competitions, the Grand Challenge and the Hotelkeepers', were into the sixteens by the close of the day's play. Draws were lined up for Wednesday in the secondaries, the Birks and the Real Estate.

Nineteen out-of-town rinks are here and 15 from the Red Deer club.

Ice was in good shape although some of the sheets were a bit tricky at times. Two 13-enders were played during the day, both in the Hotelkeepers. Welliver, of Red Deer, edging out Lennox of Innisfail, in one, and McRobbie, also of the local club, staging a great comeback to beat Colwell, Benalto.

Hugh Clarke, bonspiel secretary, kept play moving well, aided by A. R. Little, club president; J. McRobbie, vice-president, and J. C. Knight, secretary.

RESULTS OF PLAY

Grand Challenge Extra Series: National Elevator, Calgary, beat Little Red Deer; Knight, Red Deer, beat Bawlf; Sykes, Lake.

In Memoriam

IN loving memory of Mrs. Marion (Mother) McKinley, who entered rest, January, 26th 1937.

A door swings briefly open and Granny slips away,
Slips smiling from life's shadows
into God's eternal day,
Where earthly grief is forgotten,
where pain shall be no more,
To peace past understanding, God opened wide the door.

—Ever remembered by her faithful friend, Mary McKenzie.

FLYING TRAPPER ARRIVES WITH CARGO OF FUR

After being marooned for more than a month in the snowy wastes of the Nahanni River country, 200 miles north of Fort Nelson, G. C. F. Dalziel, the northland's "flying trapper" arrived at the Blatchford airport in Edmonton Tuesday with his plane loaded with approximately $7,000 worth of fine furs.

Flying into the uninhabited section of the northland three months ago in search of fur, Dalziel ran his plane up on skids and went out on his trap line. Then, about Christmas, he returned to the plane with a sleigh-load of fur. A leaking gas tank had allowed the gasoline to trickle from his tanks, so that he had insufficient fuel to make the return trip to Fort Nelson.

There was nothing that he could do except to wait for help, because it was too far to start out on foot for help.

Finally after more than a month of sending the idle days in search of a plane, Dalziel saw Charlie Tweed, of United Air Transport, flying supplies into other trappers in the country, go overhead. Dalziel signalled his pilot by lighting a fire. Tweed alighted and found there enough gasoline to get to Fort Nelson.

Military Pact Scandinavia Is New Proposal

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 26.—Reports that Swedish leaders Tuesday suggested a military alliance of the Scandinavian states.

Foreign Minister Richard Sandler, in a speech in the Riksdag (parliament), emphasized the importance of "preparedness" and assures the Nordic nations stable peace and complete national independence.

Social Democrats, organ of the majority party, also rallied to the stand in favor of such an alliance. Going a step further, the Conservative party, the second largest party in parliament, approved the alliance proposals and suggested that Finland be included.

Richest Girl in the World

—By ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES—

CAST OF CHARACTERS

CONSTANCE CORBY, heroine, the richest girl in the world.

BRET HARDISTY, hero; bridge builder.

RODNEY BRANDON, Connie's fiancé.

KATIE BLYN, Connie's chum.

Yesterday, Bret accepts Connie's explanation about the jewels—they were her mother's. Now that night Connie has her precious tour before she is to tell Bret really who she is.

CHAPTER XII

CONNIE had "her hour" for a little while. Her lovely, secret romance. Each day she told herself that the time must come when she would tell Bret the truth about herself. But each day wore on, in the next, with her courage gone how failing her, her decision wavering.

Bret's bridge rose and expanded and spread; so that soon it would be a creation completed in steel and stone, as well as in a man's mind. So different was this life to Connie; so complete her happiness in companionship that after weeks she was to wonder if it really had been, if perhaps she had not really been dreaming all the while those fleeting months, that were over and done all too soon.

The first fair days of spring descended into the low valley, warming the little sleepy village into a new activity, awakening the somber dark hills, bringing the tips of the gray trees, while things were lured out to sun themselves in shelter at the springy birds twittered and built and began to look elsewhere for a place for their home-making. And Bret insisted Connie must have a horse, so that she and he might come across a rattler or stop-herd during their walks.

"And make a cowhide of you, yet," he told her jokingly. He was very gay these days, was Bret. Gay and masterful and tender.

"When are you going to make up your mind to marry me, like sensible girls?" he asked her one day, something that first said, more than once. "I can't see why we shouldn't be married right away. Then we could have our honeymoon—and perhaps, that it might be better—for me—to wait until the bridge is done. You could be adopted by the banqueting zone. "I don't want to let you take my mind completely off my work."

Connie said she wished she could. But she did not mean it. Her husband must be allowed to be as to him. According to the contract it must be finished within another month. Why, before it would be. Just as—with luck again—she might have that much longer as a Kit o' Blyn.

She told him, laughingly, that she wouldn't give him the answer she knew he wanted—"Not until the bridge is finished," she said, "then I'll be ready and able to give you my answer. I'll decide about being married."

That made postponement easier, more acceptable. Connie's bridge was done Connie must tell him who she was as well as when she would marry him.

She was not to be allowed that postponement, however. Perhaps fate, if there is such a lady, had decided that she had been kind long enough.

That following Saturday Eloise and Connie left their car, after shopping together. They had driven over to a nearby town, a larger one where there were more shops, to satisfactorily meet their demands. Their purchases had been completed, they had even indulged in a fine sundae at the elegant marble soda fountain, when Eloise stopped suddenly in the street.

"Oh," she exclaimed, "I forgot—I'll have to go back. I promised I'd bring home a Charleston paper. Bret will be disappointed, and Mother will never forgive me, unless I do. You go on to the car, Katie, and I'll be with you in a minute."

Take your time," Connie laughed. Eloise had appeared as distressed as though she had committed a side-able offense. Connie and Eloise were close friends now. They had had many happy hours together, chatting as only two young girls can of everything under the sun and above it. They had, indeed, become like "sisters."

They chatted now, driving home again, of the latest fashions, as predicted in the store windows, how many of the spring millinery was going to be with its lower-like crowns, profusion of feminine flowers and feathers and bows—not yet how altogether delightful—as whether Mrs. Parsons would be pleased with her anniversary gift Connie had bought, as a special surprise, wholly unknown to her husband, over decide the momentous question as to bobbing her hair. Not until they were back in the car before the brick house did Connie notice the headlines and the picture on the page of the paper that Eloise had bought.

Then it was a picture of herself, a portrait study of herself that she had had made for Rodney just before she left Chicago, at the time of their engagement, and another, looking somehow like that same picture, of the girl supposedly Miss Corby, is not its fiance."

"What's the matter?" Eloise asked.

"The matter?" Connie looked up from the paper. Did she make her voice sound natural. But it shook a little. "Nothing . . . . nothing. She said . . . .

Everything, everything . . . • • • nothing.

She knew that this was the end of this girl who stood there shaken, trouble-filled, and that she would never again, the end of this Katie Blyn. She knew she would not be able to face Bret as Constance Corby once more.

Eloise observed it Rodney was to blame for this—or had the newspapers made the discovery? Rodney might have told the story because she had run away because she had stayed so long with another man. Why, Eloise was worried. He knew that the papers, the reporters, the whole world pleased with the real Constance Corby was found.

If it was Rodney's doings, she could not blame him for that. He had his pride. She could only blame herself for believing she could go on and on, living her new life she had made for herself, forgetting her lovely romance secret and again.

She would have to tell Bret now—tonight. She realized that postponement had only made this the more difficult.

Would he forgive her? Would he understand?

TORY RALLY IS PLANNED FOR ALBERTA

Conservatives in Alberta may hold a convention within the next month to map organization plans for the next Dominion election, it was reported at a meeting of the central executive of the Edmonton Conservative Association held on Tuesday evening at the parish rooms of the Pro-Cathedral.

E. W. S. Kane, president of the association, was empowered to call a special meeting of the executive for the purpose of dealing with recommendations for submission to a provincial convention.

In case a convention is not held, suggestions and recommendations received from the organizations in various parts of the province would be considered at a meeting of the executive, it was decided.

D. M. Duggan, M.L.A., Alberta Conservative leader, addressed the meeting, giving a summary of the developments of the "unity" movement in this province.

A message of sympathy to Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, federal party leader, on the death of his brother, George, at Fort McMurray, was sent by the meeting.

Merchants To Discuss Wages Delivery Boys

CALGARY, Jan. 26.—Alberta provincial Board of Retail Merchants' Association will meet in Red Deer today under the chairmanship of W. Craig of Olds, acting president, and Clayton Adams, Edmonton, secretary of the Board of Public Relations, as guest speaker.

Problems of the retailers of Alberta, including the Minimum Wage Act, especially as it concerns part-time employees and delivery boys, will be discussed.

Niagara's Ice Jam Broken

Love gets a mighty cold reception at this time of year at Niagara Falls, N.Y., mecca of honeymooners. The rushing torrent is turned into a spectacle of icy grandeur by winter's frigid magic. Gigantic icicles hung from the rocks at the side and winds waft frozen spray over the few hardy spectators who venture to the edge of the gorge.

GREAT ICE JAM THUNDERS OVER NIAGARA FALLS

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Jan. 26.—The worst ice jam in many years thundered over Niagara Falls today and the famous international falls view bridge began to buckle beneath the ice pressure. Waves appeared in the 1,000-foot span, and it was closed to traffic.

The sudden rush of ice was the result of a strong southwest wind which swept Lake Erie, 20 miles above the falls, forcing lake ice into the Niagara river.

Ice-jam in the basin below the falls was called the heaviest in history, and covering the rumbling chunks of ice was 20 feet of water which flooded over the ice in the lower river.

A concrete abutment at the United States side buckled, throwing the entire bridge out of alignment.

Falls View bridge carried the heaviest traffic across the Niagara river here. A mile below is a railway bridge, and several hundred yards farther down is the lower-arch bridge, second of the main international arteries.

With the exception of the Peace bridge, linking Buffalo and Fort Erie, Ont., Falls View traffic in summer was the heaviest carried by any of the Canada-United States international bridges.

As the jam piled, water and ice rushed into the electric generating station of the Ontario Hydro-Electric commission, below the Falls. Workmen were driven out, machinery was covered with water and the plant was closed down.

Two Being Tried For Money Order Robbery At Olds

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26—Charged jointly on five counts of forgery and uttering, Gordon F. Brown and Harry Lobansky were committed for jury trial Tuesday.

Arrested Jan. 19, the two are charged in connection with the theft of a large number of Canadian Pacific Railway express money orders from Olds, Alta., last fall.

BURNS CLUB CELEBRATES AT BANQUET

ing point from a speaker's point of view was that with a Scottish audience it was not necessary to take time to pay compliments to his listeners. That the Scotch were a fine people was freely conceded by themselves.

Discussing the Burns country the speaker pointed out that within the compass of a small area, with three small rivers running through it, the Ayr, the Doon and the Ayrton, Robert Burns had been able to find all the emotions and drama of life. The great theme of Romance was being worked out in the lives of a simple people in a simple community.

MIND PROFOUND

"Burns," said Mr. MacRae, "was not merely a simple plowman. In fact Burns was anything but simple. He wrote simply but his mind was exceedingly profound. Within him were the deep things, the understanding heart that dwelt within the great prophets of old."

Burns had done a great work for Scotland and for the world. He had broken down the deadening formalism that marked the religion and the writing of his time. He had set a new note. He had cried out for liberty, "that fantastic thing called liberty" as Burns had written in a preface to one of his poems.

"Burns exemplified the finest and the safest kind of nationalism. His patriotism was a love of country that found its root in the simple things of the countryside. All men might love rivers, lakes, the wild flowers. It was this kind of patriotism that made it possible for him to look forward to the day when we might have brotherhood. The patriotism of Burns was not a flamboyant, flag-waving, jealous nationalism that led men and nations into conflict" the speaker said.

Mr. MacRae quoted freely from the poems and songs of Burns to emphasize the point.

DEIL WAS A SCOT

On a humorous note, Mr. MacRae claimed that it was made plain from the poems "Tam O' Shanter" that the devil was a Scotsman. Quoted the lines were Satan "screwed his pipes and gart them skirl 'till roof and rafters all did dirl." "Obviously," continued Mr. MacRae "if the devil could play the pipes like that he could be nothing else than a Scot. Satan, in all probability, was just a Scot who had got thrown in down below and by sheer ability and industry had risen to be the foreman of the place.

"And it will be fine," said Mr. MacRae "for a lot of us to have him there, a sort of friend at court as it were.

"If Burns had written nothing but Auld Lang Syne he would have made the world his debtor," said Mr. MacRae.

The speaker held that in his views on the world of politics, Burns paid little attention to systems. Systems did not count with the poet. He saw the day of brotherhood coming for man, only when there was a letting up of "man's inhumanity to man." That was the cause of all the trouble and the situation could be righted only by man's greater kindliness toward his brother.

Mr. MacRae recalled that "All round the world tonight and especially in English speaking countries, people are toasting Bobbie Burns."

He said that in Lima, Bangkok, Calcutta, Orange Free State, Rhodesia and many other points, there were Burns Clubs and clubs paying their tribute to the immortal memory.

HIS HONOR DELIGHTED

"I am delighted to be at this banquet and to join the Burns club in commemorating the memory of this great Scottish poet," declared His Honor Lt.-Gov. J. C. Bowen. "I am sure that we are all here for the same purpose in enjoying ourselves and so far we are all doing it." He wished the club every success in its activities. He expressed his appreciation of being elected as a patron of the club and hoped he would be present to attend many of its gatherings.

Later, His Honor was the first to stand and lead in the applause given Mr. MacRae for his address.

J. S. Thompson replied to the toast to Scotland and dealt with many of the characteristics of the nation and its people. He stressed the fact that in Scotland, haggis regardless of all other considerations, Scotland owed a strong debt to the religious leadership given from the time of the Druids.

He recalled that the most curious Burns celebration he had ever heard of was at Vladivostok, when a Chinaman, a Norwegian and a Russian assisted a Scot in the ceremony. He recalled that although some charged that Highland dances were of a type usually associated with orgies, they seemed modest enough when compared to the "big apple".

Scotland, he said, had handed on a heritage that was bought dearly and should be prized.

PAIR OF GREATS

L. Y. Cairns, K.C., responding to the toast for Canada, declared that Scotland was rated as the greatest country of the old world and Canada as the greatest of the new. He said that Scots who came here and contributed their great work to the upbuilding of the nation. An outstanding fact of the tremendous contribution made by the Scots, he mentioned many places, mountains, rivers, lakes and other things that had been named after Scots. Residents of Canada looked upon this country, their homeland, with the greatest of patriotism, and in loyalty to country the Canadian people stood united to a man.

Responding to the toast to the city, Mayor Fry told of the valuable strategic position of Alberta and the great potentialities of the mineral and other northern areas.

He was convinced that Canada had a great future and that in the development that was to take place, the city would take its place as a city of outstanding importance.

Mr. Walker, in his introductory remarks, expressed pleasure that W. I. Munro, Saskatoon; D. J. "Scotty" Avison of Regina and M. Kyle, all former members of the club, had come back for this special event.

He paid a warm tribute to the late Dr. J. S. Smith, a former president of the club, who died recently. Tribute also was paid to W. L. Walsh, former lieutenant governor of the province, who also died recently and who had been a firm supporter of the club.

"We remember them kindly," he said, "and their names are inscribed on our roll of honor."

He read a telegram from James A. McKinnon, M.P., who is on his way to Ottawa to attend the opening of parliament on Thursday. Mr. MacKinnon expressed his regret at not having been able to attend the banquet, but expressed his best wishes for the success of the event.

A telegram also was read from J. Ivor MacNeish, a Scotsman of Montreal, in which greetings were extended to the city.

PAST PRESIDENT . . . . .

Word was also received that John MacGregor, of Ferintosh could not attend through an illness in the family.

Regret also was expressed at the unavoidable absence through illness of P. G. Thomson, K.C., a past president of the club.

Excellent musical items were given during the evening by an orchestra and chorus, conducted by Ralph Couper, the club pianist. Outstanding by the chorus were William Cromb, Jack Williams, Frank Williams, Edward McGilvrey, R. J. Jamieson, Jack Strachan, Alex M. MacDonald, Peter Chalmers, Tom Fyfe, James Richardson, William Smith and Frank Heron.

Pipers assisting were Arthur Miller and Pipe Major John Robertson, D.C.M.

SCHOOL TAX ON BACHELORS IS SUGGESTED

VANCOUVER, Jan. 26.—Male residents here who already pay a $5 annual poll tax may have to bear a special school tax in addition. The city council Tuesday appointed a special committee to investigate the advisability of levying the new tax.

Under the Public Schools Act the council may pass a by-law fixing the amount payable for school purposes by every ratepayer, and levying a special tax for the same purpose on every person resident in Vancouver three months who has a wife or husband is not a ratepayer.

2 PROMINENT LAWYERS ARE MADE JUDGES

OTTAWA, Jan. 26—Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced last night selection of two prominent Toronto lawyers for Ontario Supreme Court vacancies caused by deaths of Mr. Justice J. A. McKeoy and Mr. Justice A. C. Kingstone. Two Hamilton lawyers were appointed to the Westworth county court.

The appointments:

George A. Gillespie, K.C., and J. M. Godfrey, Ontario securities commissioner, to be judges of the High Court of Ontario.

William F. Schwenger, Liberal member of the Ontario legislature for Hamilton Centre, and E. F. F. Lazier, K.C., to be junior and senior judges respectively of the Wentworth county court. Mr. Lazier also will act, during his term of office, as local judge in the high court of Ontario.

WRITERS HONOR BASEBALL STARS

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26.—Mickey Cochrane, manager of Detroit Tigers, last night was named the "most courageous athlete of 1937" by the Philadelphia Sporting Writers Association.

Before a lineup of notables in the sporting realm and 1,000 guests at the association's banquet the plucky manager and former catcher of Philadelphia Athletics, was given a plaque.

Cochrane was seriously injured last summer when struck on the head by a fast ball pitched by Bump Hadley of New York Yankees.

Joe Dimaggio, of New York Yankees, voted the most valuable player last season, was presented with a cup, and Carl Hubbell, of New York Giants, selected as the best pitcher, was given a trophy.

Patrick Predicts Rangers To Clean Up All Crowns

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Lester Patrick, never a fellow who makes predictions at random, Tuesday said his New York Rangers should win both the National Hockey League championship and the Stanley cup.

"In the past I always have admitted that some team or other was the team to beat," said Boss Patrick before he led his Rangers to Boston, "but this season I think this is the team the other fellows have to beat.

"Behind Rangers I rate Boston and Toronto neck and neck. Either one might win the title. I would say also the Canadiens have a chance and the Americans can't be counted out of the picture."

Ontario Curlers Beat Scottish

TORONTO Jan. 26.—Four rinks from the Ontario Curling Association today defeated the touring Scottish curlers by a 74-40 margin in an 18-end test match. Scores were 115-41.

Skip Charlie Bulley of Toronto Granites defeated J. M. Dyke's quartet 37-8, the largest winning margin of the test match. Gordon Campbell's 1935 Dominion championship four from Hamilton trimmed Skip R. Grierson's rink 27-9. A. E. Dunker of Kitchener, Ontario tankard winner in 1937, defeated W. C. S. McGlashan 26-10 and Percy Skitch's rink from Lindsay defeated Skip A. Howie 23-14.

Edmonton Quartet Wins Bay Laurels Saskatoon Bonspiel

SASKATOON, Jan. 26—Visiting curlers carried off the trophies in three of the five Saskatoon bonspiel events completed Tuesday.

Don Olson of Edmonton Royal club, captured the Hudson's Bay trophy by defeating Fred Williams, Saskatoon, 16-11. Lou Jones, Dinsmore, annexed the Quaker Oats with a victory over Stan McDougall, Unity, and Cliff Annabra Asquith, won the T. Eaton by defeating Jack Siddall, Hanley.

Roy Forsyth, Saskatoon, captured the Birds Grand Challenge by defeating his club-mate, C. B. Anderson. It was Anderson's first defeat of the bonspiel. Anderson won the Grand Aggregate with Forsyth in the runner-up position.

Birch Defaults Badminton Title

VANCOUVER, Jan. 25—Dick Birch, holder of the men's singles and co-holder of the mixed doubles Canadian badminton titles, announced last night he would default the championship this year.

The tall Vancouver shuttler, who defeated Dave Zanella of Toronto here last year for the singles title, said he would not compete in the Canadian championships at Quebec this season because a recent illness had left him out of condition.

Birch, with Mrs. Anna Kier Patrick of Vancouver to win the doubles title last year.

Sudbury Defeats Munich Team, 5-0

MUNICH, Jan. 26—The Canadian hockey team touring Europe as the Sudbury Wolves last night defeated the Reiger club here, 5-0.

Scorers for the Ontario team were Jimmy Russell, Sudbury; Pearcey Allan, Toronto; Buster Portland, Coinstin Mines; Pat McReavy, Copper Cliff; and Gordon Bruce, Ottawa.

It was the seventh game of the tour, the Canadians having won five and drawn two.

Wembley Monarchs Take Second Place

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Wembley Monarchs slipped into second place in the English Ice Hockey League standing ahead of Earl's Court Rangers last night by defeating Harringay Greyhounds 4-2. Monarchs have a half-game advantage on Rangers.

Gordon Dailley and Wally Rost of Winnipeg, Frankie Leblanc of Montreal and Alex Sinclair of Port Arthur scored for the winners and Duke Campbell and Dune Cheyne of Winnipeg got the Greyhounds' goals.

Great Britain After Polo Cup

LONDON, Jan. 26—Great Britain started a two-year, $150,000 campaign Tuesday to regain the Westchester polo cup from the United States.

The Burlingham Polo Association, which will challenge the United States in September 1939, announced it already has bought 18 ponies for the cup matches. It will purchase 30 more before the 1939 season starts.

Britain and the United States first competed for the cup in 1886. Britain won it last in 1914.
